Title.	AN ACT to provide for the Administration of the Criminal Law in Certain Cases. [13th September, 1882.]
Short Title.	BE IT ENACTED by the General Assembly of New Zealand in Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:— 1. The Short Title of this Act is "The Criminal Law Act, 1882."
Sentence of death not to be carried out until intimation of Governor's pleasure.	2. Whenever sentence of death shall be pronounced by any Court or Judge in New Zealand, the officer whose duty it may be to carry out such sentence shall not proceed to execute the same till he have received an intimation of the Governor's pleasure with respect to such sentence; and it shall be the duty of such officer, within seven days after receiving a notice that the Governor will not interfere with such sentence, to carry out the same.
Disposition of body of person executed.	3. Whenever sentence of death shall be pronounced by any Court or Judge in New Zealand, such Court or Judge shall not, either in or by such sentence or at any time, make any order for the disposition or burial of the body of the person on whom the sentence is to be executed, and the body of any person on whom sentence of death shall have been carried into execution shall be either buried within the gaol or place where such execution shall have been had or in such other place as the Governor may direct, either as to the particular case or generally as to all executions in the gaol where such execution shall have been had.
