[18th November, 1903.]

BE IT ENACTED by the General Assembly of New Zealand in Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

Open season for trout-fishing.

2. The open season for trout-fishing throughout the colony shall begin on the first day of October in each year and extend to the following thirtieth day of April, both days inclusive: Provided that upon the written application of any duly registered acclimatisation society it shall be lawful for the Governor by notification to further restrict such season in any particular district or portion thereof, but within the respective dates or period aforesaid.

Additional power to make regulations.

3. In addition to the several matters for which regulations may be made under the principal Act, the Governor may from time to time, by Order in Council gazetted, make regulations—

Licenses for men, available throughout New Zealand, one pound;

Licenses for women, and boys attending school or under the age of sixteen years, available throughout New Zealand, five shillings;

Half-season licenses, single-river licenses, day licenses, and licenses to fish for perch only, available only in any acclimatisation district, at such sums as may be prescribed by the Governor in Council:

(b.) Regulating the export of trout:

(c.) Preventing the pollution of streams in which trout or salmon exist or have been liberated, either by casting or allowing to flow into or placing near the bank or margin of any such stream any sawdust or sawmill refuse, lime, sheep-dip, flax-mill refuse, or any other matter or liquid noxious, poisonous, or injurious to fish: Provided that the depositing of débris from any mining claim shall not be held to be pollution under this Act.

4. Any fisheries officer appointed under the principal Act shall have and may exercise within the district for which he is appointed all the powers conferred upon an officer appointed under "The Salmon and Trout Act, 1867," and the provisions of sections six, seven, and eight of that Act shall, mutatis mutandis, apply to any such officer.
