BE IT ENACTED by the General Assembly of New Zealand in Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

1. Short Title—This Act may be cited as the Industrial Relations Amendment Act 1963, and shall be read together with and deemed part of the Industrial Relations Act 1949 (hereinafter referred to as the principal Act).

2. Power of Minister to call compulsory conference or appoint committee of inquiry—The principal Act is hereby amended by inserting, after section 8, the following section:

“8A. (1) Where the Minister is of the opinion that an industrial dispute exists which has caused or is threatening to cause a partial or total discontinuance of employment and that normal means of reaching a settlement of the dispute have failed to do so, the Minister may, if he considers it desirable to do so in the public interest, do either or both of the following things:

“(a) Call a compulsory conference of the parties to the dispute or their representatives in an endeavour to secure a settlement of the dispute, and appoint any person to be the chairman of the conference:

“(b) Appoint a committee of inquiry with power to inquire into the matter of the dispute generally or into such aspects of the dispute as the Minister specifies. The committee shall consist of an equal number of persons to represent respectively the employers and the workers concerned in the dispute, together with a chairman:

“Provided that where the parties concerned in the dispute so agree, the committee may consist of one person.

“(2) In subsection (1) of this section the term ‘discontinuance of employment’ has the same meaning as in subsection (5) of section 198 of the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act 1954.

“(3) Where, pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, the Minister calls a compulsory conference, the provisions of subsections (2), (3), and (4) of section 8 of this Act shall extend and apply as if every reference in those subsections to the Conciliation Commissioner were a reference to the Minister.

“(4) Every committee of inquiry appointed under this section shall be deemed to be a Commission under the Commissions of Inquiry Act 1908, and the provisions of that Act shall apply accordingly.

“(5) Every such committee shall report the results of its inquiry and its findings to the Minister. A copy of the report shall be made available by the Minister to each of the parties concerned in the dispute.

“(6) The Minister may publish the report of any such committee or a summary of the report.”
