1936, No. 22.

Title.

AN ACT to make Special Provisions with respect to the Trial of Civil Actions in the Supreme Court.

[21st August, 1936.]

BE IT ENACTED by the General Assembly of New Zealand in Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

Short Title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be cited as the Judicature Amendment Act, 1936, and shall be read together with and deemed part of the Judicature Act, 1908 (hereinafter referred to as the principal Act).

(2) This Act shall apply with respect to actions that are set down for trial at any sitting of the Supreme Court that is commenced on or after the first day of July, nineteen hundred and thirty-six. All other actions shall be tried as if this Act had not been passed.

Certain actions to be tried by jury.

2. (1) This section applies to actions in which the only relief claimed is payment of a debt or pecuniary damages or the recovery of chattels.

(2) If the debt or damages or the value of the chattels claimed in any action to which this section applies exceeds fifty pounds but does not exceed five hundred pounds, either party may have the action tried before a Judge and a jury of four persons on delivering to the proper officer of the Court, at least eight days before the commencement of the sittings at which the action is to be tried, a notice that he requires the action to be tried before a jury of four. A copy of the notice shall be served on the other party at least four days before the commencement of the sittings.

(3) If the debt or damages or the value of the chattels claimed in any action to which this section applies exceeds five hundred pounds, the action shall be tried before a Judge and a jury of twelve persons, unless both parties consent in writing to trial before a Judge with a jury of four or without a jury.

(4) If the defendant in any action to which this section applies sets up a counterclaim which, pursuant to the last preceding subsection, is to be tried before a Judge and a jury of twelve persons, the action shall, on the application of the plaintiff, also be tried before a Judge and a jury of twelve. If no such application is made the action shall, subject to any direction of the Court under the next succeeding section, be tried as it would be tried irrespective of the counterclaim.

3. Except as provided in the last preceding section, every action shall be tried before a Judge without a jury:

All other actions to be tried by a Judge alone, unless the Court orders trial by jury.

Provided that if it appears to the Court, either before or at the trial, that the action or any issue therein can be more conveniently tried before a Judge with a jury of four or with a jury of twelve the Court may direct that the action or issue be so tried.

4. Any action or issue that may be tried before a Judge with a jury of twelve or of four as hereinbefore provided may, on the application of either party, at the discretion of the Judge, be tried before a Judge with a special jury of twelve or of four respectively:

Special jury may be ordered in certain cases.

Provided that, except with the consent of all the parties, no application for trial before a Judge with a special jury shall be granted unless in the opinion of the Judge a knowledge of business, mercantile, or banking matters is required on the part of the jury.

Consequential repeal.

5. The Second Schedule to the principal Act (as amended by an Order in Council made under the authority of section fifty-one of the principal Act on the eighth day of December, nineteen hundred and twenty-four, and published in the Gazette of the eleventh day of the same month) is hereby further amended by repealing the rules numbered 254 to 259 in the Code of Civil Procedure in the Supreme Court.
