1952, No. 43

Title.

AN ACT to amend the Police Offences Act 1927.

[22 October 1952

BE IT ENACTED by the General Assembly of New Zealand in Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

Short Title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be cited as the Police Offences Amendment Act (No. 2) 1952, and shall be read together with and deemed part of the Police Offences Act 1927 (hereinafter referred to as the principal Act).

See Reprint of Statutes, Vol. II, p. 500

(2) This Act shall come into force on the first day of January, nineteen hundred and fifty-three.

2. The principal Act is hereby amended by repealing section six, and substituting the following section:—

Wilful destruction of property.

“6. (1) Every person commits an offence and is liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months, or to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds, who—

“(a) Wilfully sets on fire any timber, bush, scrub, grass, fern, flax, or other vegetation on any land that is not his own property or in his own occupation:

“(b) Wantonly or maliciously destroys, defaces, damages, or removes any door-plate or any other plate or board with any name or notice thereon, or any bell, knocker, sign-board, or gate:

“(c) Wilfully destroys or damages any property for the destruction of or for damage to which no other punishment is prescribed by this Act, if the property destroyed, or, as the case may be, the damage to the property, does not exceed in value the sum of twenty pounds.

Cf. 1927,
No. 37, s. 216

“(2) Where any person is convicted of an offence under this section, the Court may, in addition to imposing any such penalty as aforesaid, order the person so convicted to pay to the owner of any property destroyed or damaged a sum not exceeding twenty pounds by way of compensation for the destruction or damage. The making or enforcement of an order under this subsection shall not affect the right of the owner or of any other person to recover by civil proceedings any damages in excess of the amount specified in the order.

Cf. ibid., s. 220

“(3) For the purposes of this section, every person who causes any event by an act which he knew would probably cause it, being reckless whether that event happens or not, shall be deemed to have caused it wilfully.

Cf. ibid., s. 215

“(4) Nothing shall be an offence under this section unless it is done without legal justification or excuse, and without colour of right.

“(5) Where the offence consists in an injury to anything in which the offender has an interest, the existence of that interest, if partial, shall not prevent his act being an offence, and, if total, shall not prevent his act being an offence if done with intent to defraud.

Cf. 1927,
No. 37, s. 219

“(6) Any constable who on reasonable and probable grounds believes that any person has committed an offence against this section may arrest that person without warrant.”

Wilful trespass

3. The principal Act is hereby further amended by inserting, after section six (as substituted by section two of this Act), the following section:—

“6A.
