1900, No. 44.

AN ACT to amend the Law relating to the Representation of the People in the House of Representatives. [20th October, 1900.] Title.

BE IT ENACTED by the General Assembly of New Zealand in Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1. The Short Title of this Act is "The Representation Act, 1900." Short Title.

2. On the expiration by effluxion of time or other sooner determination of the present General Assembly, the number of members to be thereafter elected to the House of Representatives under the provisions of "The Representation Act, 1887," shall be seventy-six, in lieu of seventy as provided by "The Representation Acts Amendment Act, 1887," and for each of the six additional members an additional district shall be assigned. Increased number of representatives.

3. At a time and place to be fixed by the Governor the Commissions appointed under "The Representation Act Amendment Act, 1896," shall sit together as a joint Commission for the purpose of determining, in the manner and according to the basis prescribed by "The Representation Act, 1887," how many of the aforesaid six additional seats shall be for the North Island and how many for the Middle Island (including Stewart Island). Appointment of new districts.

4. Subsection six of section three of "The Representation Act, 1887," and section two of "The Representation Act Amendment Act, 1889," are hereby amended by the substitution of the words "twelve hundred and fifty" for the words "seven hundred and fifty" wherever they occur. Subsection (6) of section 3 of "The Representation Act, 1887," and section 2 of "The Representation Act Amendment Act, 1889," amended.

5. The said Commissions shall, when directed by the Governor, and within such time as he determines, do all such acts and things as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of sections three and four of "The Representation Act, 1887," and section two of "The Representation Act Amendment Act, 1889," as amended by this Act. Direction to Commissions.
