1950, No. 14

AN ACT to Make Provision as to the Operation of the Law in Relation to India, and Persons and Things in Any Way Belonging to or Connected with India, in View of India's Having Become a Republic While Remaining a Member of the Commonwealth.

Title

[4th September, 1950]

WHEREAS on the twenty-sixth day of January, nineteen hundred and fifty, India became a republic while remaining a member of the Commonwealth:

Preamble.

BE IT THEREFORE ENACTED by the General Assembly of New Zealand in Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be cited as the Republic of India Act, 1950.

Short Title and commencement.

(2) This Act shall be deemed to have come into force on the twenty-sixth day of January, nineteen hundred and fifty.

Existing law to apply as if India had not become a Republic.

Cf. India (Consequential Provision) Act, 1949 (12, 13, & 14 Geo. VI, ch. 92), s. 1 (U.K.)

2. (1) All existing law—that is to say, all law which, whether it is a rule of law or a provision of an Act of any Parliament or a provision of any other enactment or instrument whatsoever, has come into force or been passed or made before the passing of this Act—shall, until provision to the contrary is made by the authority having power to alter that law, have the same operation in relation to India, and to persons and things in any way belonging to or connected with India, as it would have had if India had not become a Republic.

(2) This section extends to law of, or of any part of, New Zealand or any of the territories referred to in section three of this Act.

3. (1) This Act shall be in force in the following territories:—

- (a) The Cook Islands:
- (b) The Tokelau Islands:
- (c) Western Samoa.

(2) This Act is hereby declared to be a reserved enactment for the purposes of section nine of the Samoa Amendment Act, 1947.

Application of Act to Cook Islands, Tokelau Islands, and Western Samoa.
