

LOCAL GOVERNMENT AMENDMENT BILL (NO. 9)

This bill was formerly the Local Government Law Reform Bill as reported from the Internal Affairs and Local Government Committee.

The committee reported the bill with a recommendation that the Short Title of the bill be amended to the Local Government Amendment Bill (No. 7). Such a recommendation does not have effect until the House resolves that the bill do proceed at the conclusion of the consideration of the committee's report.

In the interval between the report of the Internal Affairs and Local Government Committee on 22 December 1998 and the consideration of that report on 1 June 1999 two further similarly entitled bills came before the House. These were the Local Government Amendment Bill (No. 7) (divided from the Local Government (Meaning of Local Authority Trading Enterprise) Bill) and the Local Government Amendment Bill (No. 8) introduced on Tuesday, 1 June 1999.

As no bill before the House may have the same Short Title as another bill in the same session of Parliament, the Speaker has directed that this bill be reprinted as the Local Government Amendment Bill (No. 9).

LOCAL GOVERNMENT LAW REFORM

AS REPORTED FROM THE INTERNAL AFFAIRS AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT COMMITTEE

COMMENTARY

Recommendation

The Internal Affairs and Local Government Committee has examined the Local Government Law Reform Bill and recommends that it be passed with the amendments shown in the bill.

Conduct of the examination

The Local Government Law Reform Bill was referred to the Internal Affairs and Local Government Committee on 6 December 1994. The bill was divided into seven separate bills; clauses 1, 2, and 5 to 14 of the original bill constitute the present bill. The closing date for submissions was 8 March 1995. The committee received and considered 23 submissions from organisations and other interested groups and individuals. Seventeen submissions were heard orally. One hour and nine minutes was spent on the hearing of evidence and consideration took six hours and 40 minutes.

Advice was received from the Department of Internal Affairs.

This commentary sets out the details of the committee's consideration of the bill and the major issues addressed by the committee.

Background

Introduction

The residual clauses of the Local Government Law Reform Bill amend the Local Government Act 1974. These clauses enable land drainage schemes and water-race schemes to be transferred from local authorities to users of those schemes.

Examination of the bill was delayed by litigation in the High Court of New Zealand. The judgment of the court was delivered in Begley v Bay of Plenty Regional Council (Morris J, 5 September 1995, High Court Rotorua, M151/92). This decision was appealed by the defendant. The judgment of the New Zealand Court of Appeal was delivered in Bay of Plenty Regional Council v Begley (Thomas, Barker and McGechan JJ, 13 May 1997, Court of Appeal, CA 260/95).

Dividing the bill

On 1 June 1995 the House gave the Internal Affairs and Local Government Committee authority to divide the Local Government Law Reform Bill into such separate bills as it thought desirable and to report the bills separately to the House.

- Part VII (clauses 129 to 162) and the Ninth Schedule were divided from the bill to form the Chatham Islands Council Bill, which was reported to the House on 20 July 1995.
- Clauses 18 to 21 were divided from the bill to form the Local Government Amendment Bill (No. 4), relating to the Auckland Regional Services Trust, which was reported to the House on 19 October 1995.
- Parts II to V (clauses 33 to 118) and the Sixth, Seventh and Eighth Schedules formed the Dog Control Bill, which was reported to the House on 5 December 1995.
- Clauses 3, 4, 22 to 32 and the First, Second, Third, Fourth and Fifth Schedules formed the Local Government Amendment Bill (No. 5), relating to financial management of local authorities, which was reported to the House on 19 December 1995.
- Clauses 15 to 17 formed the Local Government Amendment Bill (No. 7), relating to waste management, which was reported to the House on 1 May 1996.
- Part VI (clauses 119 to 128) formed the Rating Powers Amendment Bill, which was reported to the House on 1 May 1996.

Change of Title, Short Title and commencement

The remaining 12 clauses of the Local Government Law Reform Bill, namely clauses 1, 2, and 5 to 14, were carried over to this Parliament. As only those clauses remain alive in the bill, we recommend that its title and short title be changed and that the bill become known as the Local Government Amendment Bill (No. 7). We recommend that the bill come into force on the day after the date on which the bill receives the Royal assent.

Purpose of the bill

The bill seeks to allow the transfer of land drainage and water-race schemes from local authorities to scheme users where the transfer has the support of a significant majority of those scheme users. The principle of the bill is based on the Irrigation Schemes Act 1990.

The bill seeks to provide workable and fair procedures for the initiation and negotiation of proposals between scheme users and local authorities, the equitable identification of assets and rights to be transferred in conjunction with the land drainage or water-race scheme, the registration of informed support for developed proposals and rights of objection for local authorities or scheme users opposing the transfer. The bill proposes that objections be determined by the Local Government Commission.

The bill proposes that scheme users assuming ownership and responsibility for land drainage and water race schemes retain some of the statutory powers of local authorities. The collection of financial contributions, enforcement of operational requirements, and other management issues will have to be agreed to by agreements and contracts with participating scheme users.

Committee’s considerations and recommended amendments

Initiation of transfer proposal

We discussed amending the bill to include provision for a negotiating team to be appointed at a public meeting of which all scheme users have been notified as a way of initiating the process of preparing and negotiating a transfer proposal. The department advised against including a prescriptive process for the appointment of a negotiating team or conferring any special status or rights upon such a team, because of the wide range of contingencies that would then need to be legislated for.

We recommend the inclusion of a more general and purpose-oriented provision recognising the need for discussion and negotiation before a transfer proposal is completed and formally lodged with the local authority. Previously, the bill dealt with only those formal procedures which commence with lodging the proposal. We also recommend a general obligation for local authorities to participate positively in the development and negotiation of transfer proposal deals. These objectives are reflected in the proposed new sections 517C and 517D.

Provision of information for transfer proposal

We considered a proposal that the local authority be required to provide current and historical information relating to financial and other details of the scheme. We do not recommend the adoption of such a proposal. Sufficient financial and administrative information is publicly available under the Local Government Act 1974 and the Local Government Official Information and Meetings Act 1983.

Negotiation of transfer proposal

We considered a proposal for the local authority to be required to “negotiate in good faith” with scheme users. We were advised that the imposition of a requirement to that effect would be both inappropriate and unenforceable, in that what would constitute good faith would vary enormously from situation to situation, and would reflect a highly subjective judgment. We accept this advice and do not recommend the imposition of such a requirement. It should be noted, however, that such an expectation is implied in general terms by the provisions in proposed new sections 517C and 517D.

Means of support for transfer proposal

We considered two alternatives to the requirement that the number of signatures must, if the proposal is to proceed, represent at least 75 percent of the number of separately rateable properties served by the scheme. The first alternative involved replacing the petition requirement with a postal ballot of scheme users, with a simple majority of those voting being sufficient for the scheme to proceed. The second alternative involved replacing the petition requirement with provision for the decision to be made by majority at a properly constituted meeting of scheme users.

We consider that a petition is the most efficient and cost-effective means of measuring support.

Degree of support for transfer proposal

The bill as introduced required, as a threshold of support for a proposal to transfer a scheme, signatures representing at least 75 percent of the number of separately rateable properties served by the scheme. Some submissions argued that this was too high. We considered different options concerning the proportion of scheme users required to support a proposal in order for the process to continue and agreed that an initial threshold of more than 50 percent should be adopted. The threshold of more than 50 percent is designed to encourage the initiation of the procedure. However, where the proposal is referred to the Local Government Commission, there is an opportunity for objectors to have their say about the transfer. In this situation, where the Commission modifies a proposal, a threshold of at least 75 percent support is required before the transfer proposal can proceed. We recommend that the initial threshold be reduced from at least 75 percent to more than 50 percent because of the safeguard provided by this two stage process in combination with a greater emphasis on the Commission resolving any problems with the transfer.

Participation in decision on transfer proposal

We considered issues arising in relation to situations where the meaning of “scheme user” may be unclear. These include where several properties are occupied by the same person or persons, either where there is one property held in two or more titles or where there are multiple separate properties; where several persons occupy one property; and where a person occupies one property jointly with one person, and another property jointly with another or others.

We do not support submissions that the impact of the support of scheme users should vary according to the size, in terms of either value or area, of their properties. We recommend amendments to section 517G which relates to signatures to the transfer petition to clarify several issues. Properties held in multiple titles should not enjoy greater property rights than properties held under one title. Multiple properties that are contiguous and used for one purpose should be treated as one property for the purposes of entitlements to support or object to a proposal. Separate entitlements should apply to wholly separate properties, subject to the principle that no person shall have more than one entitlement. We consider there should be a maximum of one vote or signature per property, regardless of the number of people who jointly own or occupy the property, as provided for in the bill as introduced. Where a person occupies one property jointly with one person, and another property with another or others, each property should confer a voting entitlement, subject to no person having multiple entitlements.

Reference of objections to Local Government Commission

We consider it is appropriate that objections, especially those relating to impact on other local government functions, should be referred to and determined by the Local Government Commission. We do not recommend replacing this process with provision for resolution by negotiation or arbitration or both. Some submissions expressed concern with the role of the Local Government Commission in resolving objections. We therefore recommend the insertion of new section 517C expressly stating that the purpose of the legislation is to enable transfers to occur, and the inclusion of a reference to this provision amongst the criteria to be considered by the Commission, specified in section 517U.

Consideration of modifications to the scheme by Local Government Commission

A number of submissions suggested that, where the terms of a transfer proposal have been modified by the Local Government Commission, there should be an opportunity for the scheme users to reconsider whether they wish to proceed with the transfer in light of the modification.

We recommend the bill include provision for scheme users to withdraw support from a transfer proposal which has been modified by the Local Government Commission. A process to allow this is recommended for insertion as new section 517W. The proposed new section also allows scheme users who had not supported the original proposal to add their support after such modification. At the end of the period for removal or addition of support, the number of supporters will again be assessed against the required proportion to determine if the transfer will proceed. For the proposal to proceed, there needs to be at least 75 percent support from properties in the scheme.

Arterial and regional drains

Submissions were received from local authorities advocating the exclusion of arterial drains from schemes being returned to users, having regard to the reliance of other schemes on those drains. It was submitted that the bill should define regional and arterial drains and exclude them from any transfer. We considered that amendments were necessary to safeguard the interests of other scheme users in the event that the ownership of a scheme on which their scheme is dependent is to be transferred. We do not, however, support submissions seeking the exclusion of regional and arterial drains from schemes to be transferred.

We recommend that section 517K be amended to give a right of objection to the operator of any other scheme which is dependent on any part of the scheme to be transferred; that sections 517P and 517S be amended to ensure that any such objection is sufficient to cause referral to the Local Government Commission; and that section 517U be amended to require the Local Government Commission to consider the impact of the proposed transfer on dependent schemes.

Ownership of assets

The 1997 decision of the New Zealand Court of Appeal in Bay of Plenty Regional Council v Begley held that fixed drainage scheme assets (for example, buildings and dams) are the property of the owner of the land on which they are situated. This raises the issue of how scheme users who take over a scheme can ensure the continued operation and maintenance of assets without the statutory powers of local authorities. We do not recommend altering the bill specifically in response to the judgment of the Court of Appeal. Instead, it would be the responsibility of those promoting a transfer proposal to take whatever steps they consider necessary in relation to scheme assets in private ownership.

Rights of entry

We considered the issue of the rights of scheme users to enter property for the purposes of inspecting, maintaining or repairing a land drainage scheme or water-race scheme. In particular, we considered whether scheme users should have a statutory power of entry and, if so, whether the bill should impose a duty of care and an obligation to compensate for any damage caused. We were advised that, without explicit rights of entry, it might be possible for an individual land owner to hold all other scheme users "to ransom". We recommend that the statutory rights of entry referred to in section 517ZC be retained. The department advised us that, although matters of duty of care and liability are arguably already covered by general law, inclusion of such matters in the bill serves to emphasise and clarify the duty owed to scheme users. We therefore recommend that scheme users be subject to a duty of care and therefore to an obligation to compensate for damage.

Transfer of endowment land

We recommend that the provision that provides special procedures for the transfer of endowment land be omitted. We were advised that the inclusion in the bill of this provision (which was to have become section 517X of the Local Government Act 1974) was an error because it was never intended that the title to endowment land should be transferred, although the revenue from it should be. This intention is reflected in paragraph (f) of the definition of “scheme asset” in section 517B; section 517Z(2) provides for the collection of revenue from such land by the local authority and its payment to scheme users.

Rural water supply

We considered whether the bill should also make provision for the transfer of rural water supply. We are aware of dissatisfaction with local authority administration of some rural water supplies that is similar to the concerns that gave rise to this bill. However, we were advised that the inclusion of such provisions in the present bill would be inappropriate in that it would extend the bill beyond its original scope. We believe comment is required from a wider range of people than made submissions on this bill. We note that the question of rural water supply is being addressed in the Government’s water and waste water review, which is currently being undertaken.

Technical matters

We received a considerable number of submissions raising technical and drafting issues, and have recommended several changes accordingly.
