

PUBLIC REVENUES AMENDMENT BILL

EXPLANATORY NOTE

THIS Bill gives effect to the main recommendations of the Report of the Committee on the Simplification of the Public Accounts (August 1962: B. 18). It also makes miscellaneous amendments to the Public Revenues Act 1953.

The major changes in the Public Accounts made by the Bill may be summarised as follows:

- (a) A new account, called the Consolidated Revenue Account, is substituted for the Consolidated Fund, the Social Security Fund, and the Gas Industry Account:
- (b) A new account, called the Works and Trading Account, is substituted for the Public Works Account, the Electric Supply Account, the Land Settlement Account, the State Coal Mines Account, and the Working Railways Account:
- (c) The Deposits Account is renamed the Trust Account:
- (d) The Earthquake and War Damage Fund is taken outside the Public Account and made a separate fund.

Clause 1 relates to the Short Title and commencement. The new Act is to come into force on 1 April 1964.

PART I

PUBLIC REVENUES

Clause 2: This Part is to be read with the Public Revenues Act 1953.

Simplification of the Public Accounts

Clause 3 repeals section 38 of the principal Act and substitutes a new section 38, under which the Public Account is to consist of the following accounts and funds:

- (a) The Consolidated Revenue Account:
- (b) The National Development Loans Account:
- (c) The Works and Trading Account:
- (d) The Trust Account:
- (e) Every separate fund, account, or subsidiary account which by any Act is directed to form part of the Public Account.

Clause 4 abolishes the Consolidated Fund, the Social Security Fund, and the Gas Industry Account, and substitutes for them the Consolidated Revenue Account.

Clause 5 consequentially re-enacts, with necessary amendments, section 2 of the Finance Act 1959. At present, under that section, out of the money received in any financial year as income tax under section 77 of the Land and Income Tax Act 1954, there is paid into the Social Security Fund an amount computed at the rate of 1s. 6d. for each £1 of the total national private income for the preceding year, as estimated by the Government Statistician. Under the new section 38A inserted by this clause that amount will be now credited to the Consolidated Revenue Account as social security income tax; but by reason of the exemption in 1962 of the first £104 of annual income from social security tax (section 3 of the Land and Income Tax Amendment Act 1962) the amount to be so credited will now be computed on that portion of the national private income on which social security income tax is payable.

Clause 6 abolishes the Public Works Account, the Electric Supply Account, the Land Settlement Account, the State Coal Mines Account, and the Working Railways Account, and substitutes for them the Works and Trading Account.

Subclause (4) re-enacts the present provisions of section 4 (7) of the Finance Act (No. 2) 1943, with the substitution of a reference to the Works and Trading Account for the reference to the Land Settlement Account.

Subclause (5) provides for subdivisions within the Works and Trading Account.

Subclause (7) is a consequential amendment.

Clause 7 substitutes the Trust Account for the Deposits Account. The amendments made by subclause (4) are consequential.

Miscellaneous Provisions

Clause 8: Under section 35 of the principal Act the Minister may borrow from the Reserve Bank by way of overdraft in anticipation of revenue payable into the Public Account; but the amount owing on overdraft at any time during a financial year is not to exceed one-quarter of the total revenue of the preceding year, and at the end of the financial year is not to exceed the outstanding revenue of that year.

Paragraph (a) of the new proviso substituted by this clause re-enacts the first limit. Paragraph (b) substitutes for the second limit a new provision under which the Public Account is not to be in overdraft at the end of a financial year.

Clause 9: Under section 44 of the principal Act, surplus money in the Consolidated Fund may be transferred to the National Development Loans Account, the Public Works Account, the Defence Fund, or the Loans Redemption Account. This clause substitutes references to the Works and Trading Account and the Reserve Fund for the references to the Public Works Account and the Defence Fund.

Clause 10: Section 69 of the principal Act provides for the inclusion in the public accounts for each year of an "Appropriation Account" showing in respect of each vote the amount voted, the expenditure, the amount under-expended or overexpended, and the amount of unauthorised expenditure. This clause makes a drafting alteration by substituting a reference to "a statement" for the reference to an "Appropriation Account".

Clause 11: Under section 70 (2) of the principal Act, imprests unaccounted for at the end of an accounting period are to be shown as balances in hand. This clause provides that imprests outstanding at the close of business on the last day of the year are to be transferred to the Trust Account. On the first day of the next financial year they will then be transferred back to the accounts or funds to which they belong.

Clause 12 includes the Earthquake and War Damage Fund in the list of accounts, outside the Public Account, that are subject to Part IX of the principal Act. See also the note to clause 16.

Clause 13: Section 78 of the principal Act provides for an annual inspection of public securities, and for an annual return of public securities, including investments made and securities redeemed or disposed of, to be laid before Parliament by the Auditor-General. This clause substitutes a new section 78, under which a return of public securities is to be prepared by the Treasury and laid before Parliament each year by the Minister, and is to contain such particulars as the Minister prescribes.

Clause 14: Subclause (1) provides that any money in the General Purposes Relief Account that is not required for making advances for relief or assistance under section 83 of the principal Act may be transferred to the Reserve Fund.

Subclause (2) is consequential on the earlier provisions of this Part.

PART II

AMENDMENTS TO OTHER ACTS

The amendments made by this Part are consequential on Part I of the Bill.

Coal Mines

Clause 15: Subclause (1) substitutes a reference to the Works and Trading Account for a reference to the State Coal Mines Account in section 183 of the Coal Mines Act 1925.

Subclause (2) is a consequential amendment.

Earthquake and War Damage Fund

The effect of clause 16 is that the Earthquake and War Damage Fund will no longer be an account within the Public Account. It will be an account established at the Reserve Bank and operated on by the Commission.

Family Benefits (Home Ownership)

Clause 17: Subclause (1) repeals the present provision under which advances under the Family Benefits (Home Ownership) Act 1958 are made, without further appropriation, from the Social Security Fund, and substitutes a provision that they are to be made out of the Consolidated Revenue Account from annual appropriations.

Subclause (2) repeals the existing provisions for advances to be made from the Consolidated Fund to the Social Security Fund for the purposes of the Act, and for transfers of money to be made to the Social Security Fund for the same purposes. These provisions will be unnecessary by reason of the amalgamation of the Consolidated Fund and the Social Security Fund in the Consolidated Revenue Account.

Gas Industry

Clause 18 amends the Gas Industry Act 1958, by reason of the substitution of the Consolidated Revenue Account for the Gas Industry Account. Payments formerly made out of the Gas Industry Account will be made, on the recommendation of the New Zealand Gas Council, out of the Consolidated Revenue Account, from money appropriated by Parliament.

Government Railways

Clause 19 amends the Government Railways Act 1949 by reason of the substitution of the Works and Trading Account for the Working Railways Account.

Clause 20: At present, under section 38 of the Government Railways Act 1949, the Governor-General by Order in Council may determine the rates of interest payable on advances made from the Consolidated Fund to the Working Railways Account and on the total capital money expended in respect of the railways, and the payments to be made into or out of the Working Railways Account under the Act, and may do all other things necessary for the Act in relation to that Account. This clause substitutes a new section 38, under which the Minister of Railways, acting in conjunction with the Minister of Finance, may do any thing, not otherwise provided for in the Act or in any other Act, which is necessary for the carrying out of the Act in relation to the Works and Trading Account. The determination of the rate of interest will be by the Minister of Finance, under the New Zealand Loans Act 1953.

Land

Clause 21 repeals section 27 of the Land Act 1948, which established the Land Settlement Account.

New Zealand Loans

Clause 22 inserts a new section 15A in the New Zealand Loans Act 1953. The effect of the new section is that for the purposes of sections 14 and 15 of the New Zealand Loans Act (which relate to the capital liability of funds and accounts to the Consolidated Revenue Account) every subdivision within the Works and Trading Account is to be treated as a separate fund bearing its own capital liability.

Public Works

Clause 23 amends section 8 of the Public Works Act 1928 by omitting the requirement that a statement of expenditure on works and services chargeable to the Public Works Account is to be attached to the annual Works report. Expenditure from that account is already shown in the Public Accounts, which are audited by the Audit Office.

Social Security

Clause 24: Subclause (1) repeals the provision under which money required under Part II of the Social Security Act 1938 is paid out of the Social Security Fund, without further appropriation, and substitutes a provision that the money is to be paid out of the Consolidated Revenue Account from annual appropriations.

Subclause (3) repeals sections 103 and 105 of the Social Security Act 1938, which deal with the establishment of the Social Security Fund and the payment of money into it.

State Supply of Electrical Energy

Clause 25 substitutes a new section for section 8 of the State Supply of Electrical Energy Act 1917, which established the Electric Supply Account. The new section provides for revenue under the Act to be paid into the Works and Trading Account.

Clause 26: Subclause (1) inserts a new section re-enacting, with the necessary drafting modifications, section 9 of the Finance Act (No. 2) 1944. It provides for the reduction of the electric supply liability of the Works and Trading Account.

The other amendments made by the clause are consequential.
