Explanatory note

This note is not part of the regulations, but is intended to indicate their general effect.

These regulations, which come into force on 1 April 2005, replace the Injury Prevention, Rehabilitation, and Compensation (Earners' Levy and Earners' Account Residual Levy) Regulations 2003 (SR 2003/386).

The new regulations set the earners' levy rate at $1.0667 per $100 of earnings, exclusive of goods and service tax. The levy is payable on earnings derived, or treated as being derived, in the 2004–2005 tax year for self-employed persons and on earnings that relate to pay periods ending in the 2005–2006 tax year for other earners.

The maximum amount of earnings in a tax year of a self-employed person on which the levy is payable has increased from $88,728 to $92,189. The maximum amount of earnings of any other earner in a tax year on which an earners' levy is payable has increased from $92,189 to $94,226.

The level of earnings on which an earners' levy is payable by a self-employed person who works for more than 30 hours per week, whether or not as an employee, has been increased. For those aged 18 or over the amount is $17,680 and for those aged 17 or under it is $14,144.

The new regulations also set the earners' levy for self-employed persons who purchase the right to receive weekly compensation.
