MEMORANDUM.

This application was opposed on the ground that the hotelkeepers concerned were not cited when the award was made. The Court on former occasions has refused to add employers who ought to have been cited when the award was made, particularly when the original parties to the award carried on business in one defined portion of an industrial district, and those subsequently sought to be added carried on business in other parts of the district. The rule is not absolutely hard-and-fast, and the Court has on occasion, in its discretion, added parties where the award was of a standard character, and the conditions under which the employers sought to be added carried on business did not differ materially from those under which the employers already bound were operating (Canterbury Butchers award, order adding parties, Book of Awards, Vol. xxii, p. 1184). In the present case it does not appear to us that any circumstances exist that would be likely to cause the Court to make a separate award for the employers now sought to be added on different lines from those of the present award, for it is undesirable that two or more distinct awards should be in operation in the same industry in a comparatively small district, unless there is a considerable difference between the circumstances affecting the employers in different parts of the district. For these reasons, though with some hesitation, we have decided to make the order.
