DISSENTING OPINION OF MR. MONTEITH

I dissent from this decision to base the percentages on the minimum rate in the award. In my opinion, where awards provide various classifications of trades and apprentices are bound by contract to one or the other, the percentages should be based on the rate for journeymen in the trade or occupation to which the lads have been apprenticed. As an example, it may happen that two skilled trades may be provided for in the one apprenticeship order, but the minimum wage for the two classes of journeymen may vary by 1½d. The Court should base the percentages on the respective rates, and not on the lower of the two. It has done so in other cases, and I think that this principle should have been followed here.
