Whereas I am empowered by Warrant of His Excellency the Governor-General to my rank of Air Vice-Marshal, Chief of the Air Staff, Royal New Zealand Air Force, not.

Therefore, there was a marked reduction of rainfall, especially over the southern part of the South Island and in eastern districts of the South. Compared with average values the totals were lowest between Masterton and Timaru. In the Wairarapa this follows an exceptionally low March rainfall and a fairly dry regime previously. North of Whanganui and, largely as the result of one day's heavy rain, in a region Tangaroa, Opokoroa, East Cape, and Gisborne falls exceeded the average. Slight surpluses occurred also in the Auckland region and the extreme south-west.

Sunshine.—Except in the ranges temperatures were about normal, but elsewhere they tended to be rather below. Most days were mild, but calm nights gave low minimum temperatures, and while frosts were numerous these were less severe than usual. Very little snow fell on the ranges, the chief occasion being on the 26th and 27th.

Wanganui experienced an average almost generally and approached or passed record values at a number of stations, with totals of forty to sixty hours above the average. It was probably the sunniest April for the whole country for several decades. Whanganui had an exceptionally high duration of 230 hours.

Weather.—A tropical cyclone crossed the North Island near Cape Reinga, decreasing in activity as it crossed the North Island. Near the centre north-easterlies reached gale force, and considerable rain fell in the Auckland Province and moderate falls extended to beyond Cook Strait. On the 3rd south-westerlies followed a cold front, and after a few showers conditions improved as an anticyclone extended over New Zealand. The weather became less settled on the 8th with cloud increasing. A trough passed on the 9th and 10th, north-westerly winds freshening before changing to south-westerlies. Moderate to heavy rain fell in south-western districts, but elsewhere falls were lighter and more scattered.

A new anticyclone was over New Zealand on the 11th, with mainly fine weather. Behind a rapidly weakening disturbance another anticyclone was built up, and settled conditions continued till the 14th, when a deepening depression from the Kermadec Island region gave fine, clear conditions. Pasture grass is very short between Gisborne and Canterbury, with some very bare areas about the
