2ND NEW ZEALAND EXPEDITIONARY FORCE

The Distinguished Service Order
Lieutenant-Colonel Cyril Frederick Seaward, M.C. (No. 69492), 35th Battalion.

This officer commanded the 35th Battalion. In the initial stages of the operation he showed great resourcefulness in getting his Battalion within striking distance of the enemy. At first contact at Umbala on 26th September, 1943, he went through to the forward platoons and regardless of his own safety personally directed the action at a most critical period. In the subsequent pursuit to his splendid example and good leadership that the enemy was held down in the final phase and was compelled to surrender. He commanded the 35th Battalion since January, 1942. The high state of efficiency displayed by all ranks in their first engagement was a direct result of the uprightness, energy and personality which Lieutenant-Colonel Seaward displayed during his period of command.

The Military Cross
Lieutenant Sidney Joseph Bartos (No. 17904), 37th Battalion.

This officer was mainly responsible for the capture of a large enemy barge and the capture and destruction of the crew of fourteen at Tambaugh Bay during the initial stages of the 37th Battalion’s operations. While one portion of the party boarded the barge he with the remainder of his party stayed ashore and surrounded the enemy. Part of the enemy then attempted to return to the barge by a small boat, but were met by the fire of those on board and were killed. Lieutenant Bartos then called on the remainder to surrender, but was met by heavy fire. With complete disregard for his own safety he led his party straight at the enemy and disregarded for his own safety, enabled him to pin point the enemy’s position and thereby enable the infantry to get forward without heavy casualties. This N.C.O. displayed during his period of command.

The Distinguished Conduct Medal
No. 68108 Sergeant Thomas James Walsh, 35th Battalion.

This N.C.O. performed outstanding work as a patrol leader right through the operations carried out by the 35th Battalion in the northern portion of Vella Lavella during the period 28th September to 2nd October, 1943. Repeatedly, and at great personal risk, he pushed forward and gained information of the utmost value. His uncanny bush sense, combined with his absolute disregard for his own safety, enabled him to pin point enemy machine-gun positions on at least three occasions. The result was that the artillery were able to concentrate on these positions, and thereby enable the infantry to get forward without heavy casualties. This N.C.O. displayed outstanding leadership of the highest order.

No. 50691 Corporal Lewis Nesley Dunlea, 37th Battalion.

In operations in the vicinity of Wainarabi Bay in Vella Lavella, September 1943, this N.C.O. was a member of several patrols which were operating against concealed enemy positions. Throughout all the operations he displayed the courage and conspicuousness of an exceptional character. On 6th October, 1943, the officer commanding one of the patrols was seriously wounded. On that occasion, he displayed outstanding leadership in close proximity to the enemy positions. Corporal Dunlea with others then volunteered to go forward and bring him to safety. In spite of heavy fire from the enemy, the attempt was successful, and the officer, who was
