Awards approved by His Majesty the King

Office of the Minister of Defence,
Wellington, 11th September, 1944.

The following awards to personnel of the New Zealand Expeditionary Force, which have been approved by His Majesty the King since the 3rd September, 1939, and published in the New Zealand Gazette, have not previously appeared in the New Zealand Gazette:

The King has been graciously pleased to approve of awards of the Victoria Cross to the undermentioned:

2nd Lieutenant Charles Hazlett Upham (8077), New Zealand Military Forces.

During the operations in Crete this officer performed a series of remarkable exploits, showing outstanding leadership, tactical skill, and under indifferent to danger. He commanded a forward platoon in the attack on Malene on 22nd May and fought his way forward for over three thousand yards unsupported by any other arms and against a defence strongly organized in depth. During this operation his platoon destroyed numerous enemy posts, but on three occasions sections were temporarily held up.

In the first case, under a heavy fire from a machinegun nest, he advanced to close quarters with pistol and grenades, so demoralizing the occupants that his section was able to “mop up” with ease.

In another case he crawled to within fifteen yards of one machine gun and several others, the other machine gun being silenced by the fire of his sections.

In a third case he crawled to within fifty yards of a machine-gun post and killed the gunners with a grenade.

When his company withdrew from Malene he helped to carry a wounded man out under fire, and, together with another officer, rallied more men together to carry other wounded men out. He was then sent to bring in a company which had become isolated. With a corporal he went through enemy territory over six hundred yards, killing two Germans on the way, found the company, and brought it back to the battalion’s new position. But for this action it would have been completely cut off.

During the following two days his platoon occupied an exposed position on forward slopes and was continuously under fire. 3rd Lieutenant Upham was blown over by one mortar shell, and painfully wounded by a piece of splashgel behind the left shoulder by another. He continued to direct traffic under fire and, standing as it was possible, he received a bullet in the foot which he had later removed in Egypt.

As Galatas on 25th May his platoon was heavily engaged and came under severe mortar and machine gun fire. While his platoon stopped under cover of a ridge 2nd Lieutenant Upham went forward, observed the enemy, and brought the platoon forward when the Germans advanced. They killed over forty with fire and grenades, and forced the remainder to fall back.

When his platoon was ordered to retire he sent it back under the platoon sergeant, and he went back to warn the platoon that they were being attacked. When he came out himself he was fired on by two Germans. He fell and shammed dead, then crawled into a position and, using the ease of only one arm, cut a hole in the fork of a tree and as the Germans came forward he killed them both. The second to fall actually hit the muzzle of his rifle as he fell.

On 13th May at Sphakias his platoon was ordered to deal with a party of the enemy which had advanced down a steep hill on them. Near Force Headquarters though in an exhausted condition he climbed the steep hill to the west of Malene, placed his platoon on a slope overlooking the ravine and himself went to the top with a Bren gun and two rifles. By clever tactics he induced the enemy to expose their party to expose itself, then at a range of five hundred yards shot twenty-two and caused the remainder to disperse in panic.

The whole of the operations he suffered from dysentery and was able to eat very little, in addition to being wounded and bruised.

He showed superb coolness, great skill and dash, and complete disregard of danger. His conduct and leadership inspired his whole platoon to fight magnificently throughout, and, in fact, was an inspiration to the battalion.

No. 10725. Sergeant Alfre Clive Hulme, New Zealand Military Forces.

Sergeant Hulme exhibited most outstanding and inspiring qualities of leadership, initiative, skill, endurance, and most conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during the operations in Crete, this officer has been awarded the Victoria Cross by His Majesty the King for deeds of the most extraordinary heroism and self-sacrifice.

On 25th May a platoon rejoining his battalion under cover of intense machinegun fire from Point 209. He advanced against the enemy machine-guns in a house. He went in and placed a thirty-three-pound bomb on the far side of the room, which caused considerable casualties. Displaying outstanding leadership, he tied the enemy patrol in position and then stalked and shot. Shortly afterwards Sergeant Hulme was severely wounded in the left shoulder by a shell fragment, then had to leave the action.

Sergeant Hulme exhibited the most outstanding and inspiring qualities of leadership, initiative, skill, endurance, and most conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during the operations in Crete for his actions on 14th May 1941, when he was severely wounded in the left shoulder by a shell fragment, then had to leave the action.

attackers were literally mown down, 2nd Lieutenant Ngarimu personally killing several. He was twice wounded, once by rifle fire in the shoulder and later by shrapnel in the leg, and though under fire by his company and battalion commanders to go out he refused to do so, saying that he would stay a little while with his men. He stayed till he met his death the following morning.

Darkness found this officer and his depleted platoon lying on the forward face of the hill feature. In the morning the enemy again counter-attacked, and it was during this attack that 2nd Lieutenant Ngarimu was killed. His section, on his request, facing the enemy with his tommy-gun at his hip. As he fell he came to rest almost on the top of those of the enemy who were the only survivors of B Company of his battalion.

On the night of 28th-29th April, 1941, during the fighting in Greece, a column of German armoured forces heavily harassed by machine-gun and mortar fire, but each counter-attack was beaten off entirely by 2nd Lieutenant Ngarimu's inspired leadership. During one of these counter-attacks the enemy, by using hand grenades, succeeded in capturing part of the line. Without hesitation this officer rushed to the threatened area, and of these the enemy he did not kill he drove back with such personal conduct. Morning found him still in possession of the hill feature, but only he and two unwounded other ranks of reinforcements were left to him. In the morning the enemy again counter-attacked, and it was during this attack that 2nd Lieutenant Ngarimu was killed. Sergeant Hinton then fell with a bullet through the forehead, in the second house, and as a result, until overwhelming German forces arrived, the New Zealanders held the position.

No. 6751. Sergeant Keith Elliott, New Zealand Military Forces.

At Roveista at dawn on the 15th July, 1942, the battalion to which Sergeant Elliott belonged was attacked on its right flank by a German force of four hundred men. Under heavy machine-gun, mortar, and shell fire, Sergeant Elliott led the platoon he was commanding to the cover of a ridge three hundred yards away, where they came under heavy enemy machine-gun and mortar fire. He located enemy machine-gun posts on the front and rear of his line, and while the enemy were now concentrated on his left flank Sergeant Elliott led seven men in a bayonet charge across five hundred yards of open ground in the face of heavy fire and captured four enemy machine-gun posts and an anti-tank gun, killing a number of the enemy and taking fifty prisoners.
