(d) Where any award, agreement, order, or regulation requires that a junior worker or an adult female worker shall be paid wages at the rate prescribed for an adult male worker and the ordinary weekly wages for such worker exceed £6, the minimum weekly payment to which he or she is entitled under this Order shall be £6.

(e) Where a female worker is employed in a female trade in which she is entitled under this Order to receive a higher minimum weekly payment, the worker shall be entitled to receive in addition to the minimum prescribed as the maximum to be worked in that day without payment of overtime.

5. In computing the minimum weekly payment no account shall be taken of any overtime, bonus, or other special payment, and the worker shall be entitled to receive in addition to the minimum weekly payment earned under this Order, or other special payment earned by him:

(a) Provided that where payment is made for a day allowed as a holiday the worker shall be deemed to have actually worked on that day the number of hours for which payment is made on account of that holiday, and such number of hours shall for the purposes of paragraph (d) of subclause (1) of this clause, be deemed to be the number prescribed as the maximum to be worked in that day without payment of overtime.

6. (1) The right of any worker to receive in respect of any week the minimum weekly wage prescribed hereunder shall, in addition to the conditions prescribed by Regulation 13 of the Industrial Man-Power Emergency Regulations 1944, be subject to the following further conditions:—

(a) That the worker on each working-day in that week reported for work at his or her usual place of employment, or at such other place as the employer may have directed, at the time at which the worker usually reported for work, or took such other steps to ascertain whether his or her hours of work were required on that day, or may have been agreed to by the employer; and

(b) That the worker during that week performed his or her work under the same terms and conditions of his or her employment, whether prescribed by an award or agreement, or otherwise; and

(c) That the worker during the immediately preceding six weeks was not absent from available work for any reason other than:

(i) Sickness or accident or other cause outside his or her control, or

(ii) Leave of absence to which the worker was entitled under the terms of his or her employment, or leave of absence granted by or on behalf of the employer, on more than one working-day, or (if the total number of hours worked by him or her during that period of six weeks was not less than 20 per cent. for more than three working-days).

In respect of any undertaking in which it is customary to close down for a particular period at Easter or at Christmas or at New Year, no day within any such period shall be regarded as a working-day for the purposes of paragraph (c) of subclause (1) of this clause, unless the undertaking is duly required to open and to operate on that day by direction of a Controller for the time being in office as a Controller, whom under the Statutory Regulations 1939 or under any other emergency regulations.

7. (1) For the purposes of this Order, every worker who is not a junior worker shall be deemed to be an adult worker, and, except as may be otherwise provided in any award or industrial agreement under the said Order, the said Order shall be deemed to be an adult male worker.

Notes.—At stations where departures from normal are in parentheses the record has been maintained for less than ten years in the case of temperatures and for less than twenty years in the case of rainfall and the normals are partly interpolated.

Notes on the Weather for May, 1946

General.—May was a cold, dull month with frequent rain. Conditions have been rather hard on stock, and some feeding out was started in most districts. The ground is very wet and waterlogged, and outdoor farm activities have been hindered.

Rainfall.—May is usually a rather wet month for the North Island, and totals this year were above average, there being a few localised exceptions, chiefly near Whangarei, New Plymouth, and Hastings. Between Clarence and Southland totals were all very excessive, often being twice to treble the average, but near Fort Hills and Little River they were over four times the average. On the other hand Westland was much drier than usual, and most of Nelson and Marlborough had deficiencies.

Some of the more noteworthy rainfalls which occasioned flooding may be mentioned. The 17th was very wet about the Bay of Plenty, with numerous falls over 5 in. At Matata, Hicks Bay, there was 5-77 in., followed by 2-03 in. on the 18th, and at Katikati. East Cape, the falls on these days were about 8-20 in. and 1-21 in. respectively. At Little River on the 18th, 19th, and 20th the falls were 5-94, 7-57, and 4-89 in., these being the major contributions to the total of 24-01 in., which exceeded by 4 in. the total for May, 1934, which was hitherto the record of any month during its thirty years of records. The Dunedin area received falls of about 3 in. on the 19th.

Temperature.—Mean temperatures were about 2°F. cooler than average. There were some sharp frosts in nearly all districts. The final days were especially cold, and considerable snow fell on the ranges. The 29th was a very bleak day.

Sunshine.—While sunshine was most noticeable in Taranaki, the Manawatu, Canterbury, Otago, and Southland. North-easterlies gradually strengthened and gave heavy rain over Auckland Peninsula early on the 10th, and as an extensive depression moved slowly south-eastward the east coast south of its path. The Dunedin area received falls of about 3 in. on the 17th.

Behind a secondary cold front on the 4th and 5th winds turned more southerly with showery conditions, including scattered hail or snow. A vigorous orographical depression formed over Canterbury and was swept along in the strong south-easterly wind current. Ahead of it there were some westerly gales, strongest about Taranaki and South Auckland, and with squally south-westerly wind current. After a cold front on the 28th winds turned more southerly, and, while conditions were mostly cloudy, there were sharp showers of rain, hail, or snow.
