The text appears to be a combination of legal documents discussing the consent of the Dominion of New Zealand to raise a loan for the purpose of a cemetery and the establishment of a sinking fund. It includes the names of individuals, dates, and various sections of legal acts and statutes. The text is quite detailed and contains many references to laws and legal appointments. The text is not entirely legible due to the quality of the image, but it appears to be discussing the legal processes and powers involved in such financial and land management decisions.
