

SALARY RATES

1. All salaries and salary scales shown in this Classification List are at the rates applicable prior to 1st July, 1948.

2. Salary rates have since been increased on and from 1st July, 1948, in accordance with Government Service Tribunal Principal Order No. 1 (gazetted on 16th June, 1949). This provides for increases in salaries not exceeding £1,025 per annum on the following basis:—

- (a) Employees (male and female) in the Clerical, Educational, and Professional Divisions and other male employees—
  - (i) By £10 per annum to those whose salaries do not exceed £175 per annum.
  - (ii) By £15 per annum to those whose salaries exceed £175 per annum but do not exceed £275 per annum.
  - (iii) By £22 per annum to those whose salaries exceed £275 per annum.
- (b) Female employees not included in (a) above—
  - (i) By £10 per annum to those whose salaries do not exceed £185 per annum.
  - (ii) By £15 per annum to those whose salaries exceed £185 per annum but do not exceed £275 per annum.
  - (iii) By £22 per annum to those whose salaries exceed £275 per annum.

Minimum Remuneration:—

- (a) The minimum rate of £300 per annum for adult male employees was increased to £322 per annum.
  - (b) The minimum rate of £225 per annum for adult female employees was increased to £247 per annum.
  - (c) The minimum rate of £331 per annum for married male employees was increased to £353 per annum.
3. The order did not apply, inter alia, to the following groups, and the salary rates applicable prior to 1st July, 1948, remained in effect after that date:—
- (a) Employees whose salaries are fixed by reference to—
    - (i) The Education (Salaries and Staffing) Regulations 1948.
    - (ii) The Hospital Employment Regulations 1948.
  - (b) Printing and Stationery employees whose salaries had previously been adjusted.
4. Detailed instructions for the application of the salary increases provided for in Government Service Tribunal Principal Order No. 1 are contained in Notice No. 14 of Public Service Official Circular of 1st June, 1949.
