Note: At stations where departures from normal have an asterisk, the temperature record has been maintained for less than 10 years, the rainfall record for less than 20 years. Rainfall normals have been revised and now refer to the standard period 1921-30. Where observations are not available for the whole period, or where the site of the rain gauge has been changed, the normals are partly interpolated.
NOTES ON THE WEATHER FOR SEPTEMBER 1963

General: September was unusually cloudy, except in the Auckland Province. In most districts farmers were finding the growth of pasture too slow. However, in Waikato and some other parts of the Auckland Province, bloom was reported in dairy cows owing to rapid growth of clover and grass. Cold wet weather early in the month killed some lambs in the South Island; and a few were also lost in both islands in the exceptional cold of the 25th.

Rainfall: Over most of the country rainfall was close to average. However, it was more than 50 per cent above average in the Wai­tono-Taupo area, in parts of Nelson, and in North Otago and Dunedin. In central Northland, on the East Coast, and in western Southland it was appreciably below normal.

A prolonged and severe thunderstorm affected parts of the Alps on the night of the 12th, with some heavy downpours. Thunderstorms also affected parts of the Auckland Province on the 21st, and an exceptionally heavy hail storm damaged vegetable crops at Pukekohe.

Temperatures: Temperatures were 1-2 degrees above average in Northland and Auckland, Hawke’s Bay, and northern and western districts of the South Island. Elsewhere they were close to normal.

The 25th was an exceptionally cold day, with light snow reported as far north as Waikato, and a heavy fall in the high country of the central North Island.

Sunshine: Except over most of the Auckland Province, sunshine was more than 30 hours below normal. From Wanganui to Wellington and over nearly the whole of the South Island it was more than 50 hours below normal. For most of Canterbury it was the cloudiest September on record, with only 90 hours of sunshine at Christchurch. Other places which had their cloudiest September on record were Wanganui, Wellington, and Westport.

Northland and Auckland were favoured with about 10 hours more sunshine than average, while Waikato and Bay of Plenty received 10-20 hours less than the normal value.

Weather Sequence: During the first four days a complex depression from the Tasman Sea crossed the South Island, and an anticyclone developed near Campbell Island. Some rain was reported in all districts, heaviest in the King Country and West­land; only very light falls occurred in Gisborne and Hawke’s Bay, Central Otago, and Southland. Pressures remained high to the south; and from the 5th to the 7th a depression which had formed east of the North Island moved slowly away, while another depression moved slowly eastward over the south Tasman Sea. Some light rain was reported in eastern districts and more general rain developed later. As the depression from the Tasman Sea crossed the South Island during the next two days, the weather was fairly general, with moderate falls in parts of the North Island and on the West Coast. However, a weak ridge of high pressure brought a temporary improvement to most of the country on the 10th.

Pressures became very low far to the southwest, and during the 11th and 12th a trough of low pressure crossed the South Island. Some heavy rain was experienced in the Alps, with severe thunder­storms on the night of the 12th. The West Coast also received heavy rain and many other districts reported lighter falls; but eastern districts from Timaru northward and most of the Auckland Pro­vince had fair or fine weather. Rain became more general on the 13th as the trough crossed the North Island, and on the following day there was a change to southerlies with a clearance in some western districts. Another trough brought light rain to many districts during the 15th and 16th; but little or none was reported in eastern districts from north Canterbury to eastern Northland. The next two days brought better weather under the influence of an anticyclone east of the North Island.

The anticyclone moved slowly away, and during the 19th and 20th a depression was almost stationary west of Northland. Heavy rain was reported in Bay of Plenty, Coromandel, and eastern Northland, with light falls in most other areas except for inland South Island. By the 21st the depression had become shallow and the weather cleared in most districts. However, parts of the Auckland Province reported thunderstorms, with some exceptionally heavy hail, especially in Pukekohe. On the following day a weak ridge of high pressure brought fair weather.

Another trough of low pressure crossed the country on the 23rd and 24th, with fairly general rain. It was followed by a rapid change to southerlies, extending to the 25th, with light snow reported even as far north as Waikato and heavy falls on the Desert Road of the central North Island. Four days of better weather followed as an anticyclone moved across the North Island; but on the last day of the month a weak trough brought light rain to many districts.

Tariff Notice—Review of Former Tariff Concessions

1. Notice is hereby given that it is proposed that the published decisions set out in the First Schedule to this Tariff Notice approving the admission of the goods or classes of goods under item 352 of the former Tariff be reviewed.

Section 4 (2) of the Customs Acts Amendment Act 1961 provided for the continuation of the former rates of duty on these goods until 30 June 1964 and also provided that any such approval may be revoked by notice in the Gazette. Upon revocation of an approval the goods will thereafter be subject to the rates of duty provided in the Standard Tariff.

Persons who desire to have the goods listed in the First Schedule hereto approved for further concessionary entry under the provisions of the Tariff now in force should apply to write in the Comptroller of Customs, Wellington, on or before 14 November 1963.

Full details must be supplied showing specifications of the machine in respect of which the application is made, and the frequency of importations under the concession.

To facilitate consideration, representations in support of or objection to the continuation of any concession should be clearly marked “352 review” and must state the relevant decision in full. Representations should relate to one decision only.

2. Notice is also given that the published decisions approving the admission of the goods or classes of goods set out in the Second Schedule hereto under item 352 of the former Tariff are hereby revoked with effect from 14 November 1963.

In the Standard Tariff now in force the goods included in the Second Schedule are subject to the same or lower rates of duty than those which applied under the Tariff Item 352 concession.
