The Indecent Publications Act 1963

The Indecent Publications Tribunal having considered the application of the Comptroller of Customs in respect of the books, namely, two novels by Guillaume Apollinaire—The Debauched Hospodar and Memoirs of a Young Rakehell—and also of Justine by de Sade, has classified the said two novels as indecent unless circulation is restricted to persons professionally engaged in the study of abnormal psychology, who desire to use them for that purpose. The said book Justine is classified as indecent unless its circulation is restricted to psychologists or psychiatrists or any adult bona fide student of literature or philosophy.

Dated this 24th day of February 1965.

E. M. SMITH, Secretary.

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963 and in the matter of a Reference from the Magistrate's Court at Wellington for a decision regarding certain books, namely, two novels by Guillaume Apollinaire—The Debauched Hospodar and Memoirs of a Young Rakehell, and also of Justine by de Sade

DECISION AND REPORT

The tribunal has been called upon to classify two books, each a translation into English from the French in which they were originally written. One book—two novels by Guillaume Apollinaire, the other a translation of de Sade's Justine, the copy before the tribunal being somewhat defective.

The books had been imported by Mr. S. S. de Sade Hospodar and Memoirs of a Young Rakehell, and had been detained by the Comptroller of Customs who claimed them to be forfeited under the provisions of the Customs Act 1913 as "Prohibited Imports" being—it was claimed—indecent articles. In accordance with the provisions of the Act, proceedings for condemnation had been instituted by the comptroller before a Magistrate who, as required by section 12 of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, referred to the tribunal for determination the question whether the books were indecent within the meaning of the Act, or indecent in the hands of persons under a specified age, or indecent unless circulation was restricted to specified persons or classes of persons.
Counsel for the importer made submissions at some length claiming that even if a ban on the books being allowed to go into general circulation was warranted, the particular individual who had sought to import them was to be regarded as being within a class to which such a restriction was not appropriate. He himself was called to give evidence as to his purpose in seeking to acquire the books and was permitted to address the tribunal and to express his view of the value of the books to a student of literature. He deposed to being a collector of all sorts of books, and to having a library of from 5,000 to 6,000 books. We accept that, as a student of literature, he is a keen collector of all sorts of books, but our function is to decide in respect of each book submitted to us whether it is indecent, or whether it is indecent unless circulation is restricted to specific persons or classes of persons.

As regards the two novels by Guillaume Apollinaire, the content of each is vile and revolting both as to the episodes related and the language used to describe them. But it was argued they should be judged by reference to the personality of the author. He was a French writer who was born in 1880 and died in 1918. He wrote a great deal including some poetry which was considered, in character, as being within a class to which such a restriction was not likely to be applied. Counsel represented him as the “bright light” of literary Paris in his day, who had, it was said, rediscovered de Sade for his own era. He had, it would seem, a great admiration for de Sade and published a bibliography of de Sade. It may be that the foolishness of the two novels was an attempt on his part to “out do” de Sade in his effort to suggest the extremes to which human beings might descend.

These two stories are undoubtedly obscene and in our opinion have no merit, literary or other. They could not properly be permitted to go into general circulation. But there is some force in the contention that the book should not be denied to persons bona fide engaged in the study of abnormal psychology and though we condemn the book as indecent, we make a reservation—in terms of the statute—except in the hands of persons professionally engaged in the study of abnormal psychology. Whether any particular individual comes within that category is a question of fact which we are not called upon to decide. Accordingly, in terms of section 10 (b) of the Statute we classify the translation of the two novels written by Guillaume Apollinaire as indecent unless circulation is restricted to persons professionally engaged in the study of abnormal psychology, who desire to use them for that purpose. We so report.

De Sade’s Justine is in quite another category. It is a well known work written about 1787 whilst the author was in the Bastille. He was born in 1740 and died in prison in 1814. It is said that Justine’s narrative, which relates many sexual excesses and cruelties, is a representation of de Sade’s own character as depicting his disgust at conditions prevailing. It must be conceded that it is a seriously written work, somewhat philosophic in character and though the episodes related are revolting the language used to describe them is not foul or offensive. Although as narrative, the book is indecent it is one which may reasonably be allowed to be available to psychologists or psychiatrists or to any adult bona fide student of literature or philosophy. It should too be available to any library controlled by a public or professional body on terms that it be issued only to such persons as have been enumerated above. We accordingly classify it as indecent unless its circulation is restricted to psychologists or psychiatrists or any adult bona fide student of literature or philosophy. We so report.

We make no order as to costs.

K. M. GRESSON, Chairman.

THE CHARITABLE TRUSTS ACT 1957

APPLICATION FOR ALTERATION OF A TRUST

In the matter of the Charitable Trusts Act 1957, notice is hereby given, as required by section 36 of the Charitable Trusts Act 1957, that the Presbyterian Church Property Trusts (hereinafter called "the applicant") have applied to the Supreme Court at Auckland seeking approval for the alteration of a trust as follows:

SCHEDULE
The applicant holds a piece of freehold land in Titirangi, Auckland, a legal description of which is part Lot 6, D.P. 10374 (Town of New Lynn, Extension 69), being portion Allotment 46, Parish of Waikomiti, certificates of title, Volume 842, folio 262, 263, North Auckland Registry. (Area of land: 3 rods 16 8 perches) (hereinafter called the land) together with a dwellinghouse erected thereon on a trust created by the will of the late Margaret McFarlane (deceased), of Titirangi.

Briefly, the trust provided that the dwellinghouse and its contents was to be used to provide a rest home in New Zealand for sick and fatigued ministers, home missionaries, deaconesses and/or social workers of the Presbyterian Church. A Presbyterian Church could be erected on the land and the dwellinghouse used to provide a manse for the minister of the parish, but in this case a replacement rest home was to be built on the land. The residue of the trust was to be used to maintain the rest home.

The applicants wish to use the land for the purposes of building a Presbyterian Church for the Titirangi Parish and the dwellinghouse used to provide a manse for the minister. It is proposed to delete all reference to the rest home on the grounds that it was impractical and inexpedient to provide such a rest home and there are insufficient funds to administer such a rest home and in addition such a rest home is already in existence. The residue of the trust is to be used to provide an endowment fund for the Bayswater Missionary Manse.

Details of the application, the scheme, and the Attorney-General’s report thereon are open for inspection by the public, without fee or charge, at the office of the Registrar, Supreme Court, Waterloo Quadrant, Auckland.

The application seeking approval of the aforesaid scheme will be heard in the Supreme Court, at Auckland, on the 12th day of April 1965, at 10 a.m. or so soon thereafter as counsel can be heard.

Any person desiring to oppose the aforesaid scheme shall give written notice of his intentions to do so to the Registrar of the Supreme Court at Auckland as aforesaid, and to the applicant, care of Messrs Buddle, Weir, and Co., Fourth Floor, A.M.P. Building, Queen Street, Auckland, and to the Attorney-General, Wellington, not less than seven clear days before the aforesaid date of hearing.

Dated at Auckland this 26th day of February 1965.
