No. 296

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by Murdoch Riley, company director, Wellington, as agent for the publishers, for a decision in respect of the book Sex, Change and Deviations by Gilbert Oakley, published by Morutide Ltd., London.

Mr. Downey appeared for the applicant and made submissions.

Decision of the Tribunal

This book consists of over 100 pages of jokes invented or collected by Juliet Lowell who in the foreword is described as author of 12 best-selling books, contributor to the Encyclopaedia Britannica (on war humour), accomplished lecturer, scriptwriter, etc.

Given the appropriate setting some of these jokes might cause amusement but most of them are feeble, aged, crude, or offensive, serving merely to trivialise and debase; they do nothing to merit the permanence of print.

The Tribunal classifies the book as indecent.

No. 297

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the book The Bachelor's Jokebook by Juliet Lowell, published by New English Library, London.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

Decision of the Tribunal

This book is an informative account of transvestism, and the transsexual. It includes popular-style case histories and personal evidence but the main emphasis is on analysis, comment, and discussion; details of psychological and surgical treatment are given in an objective, straightforward manner.

To those people wishing to understand the problems of sexual ambiguity but not disposed to tackle specialist textbooks this could well prove helpful.

The Tribunal classifies the book as indecent.

Mr. Downey appeared for the applicant and made submissions.

Decision of the Tribunal

The offensive cover does this book a disservice. It would seem that the publisher's aim is not the same as the author's.

This book is an informative account of the transvestite and the transsexual. It includes popular-style case histories and personal evidence but the main emphasis is on analysis, comment, and discussion; details of psychological and surgical treatment are given in an objective, straightforward manner.

No. 299

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the book Eff Off by Sandy Hutson, published by Pan Books Ltd.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

Decision of the Tribunal

This Pan paperback presents a picture, from the teacher's point of view, of life in an English State school for maladjusted children.
We are prepared to believe that it is an accurate picture, and to accept the emphasis on violence, unpleasant language, and precocious sexual activity. As a social document the book has a good deal of merit, and it is not lacking in literary quality. Section 11 (2) of the Act prevents the Tribunal from classifying it as indecent, and we see no reason for applying any lesser restriction.

The Tribunal classifies the book as not indecent.

No. 300

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

Mr P. J. Downey appeared for the applicant and made submissions.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

We are told that this Belmont paperback is by an anonymous author who had written The Harem of Ali Seba. It is translated and edited by Arly Caldwell Phillips. The story is thin and contrived and the catalogue of sexual activities, natural and perverse, is enough to strain the reader's credulity. We can come to no conclusion other than that the book is indecent.

The Tribunal classifies the book as indecent.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the book The Name of the Game by Eric Wilkins, published by New English Library, London.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

This is a fast-moving novel about a fashion photographer whose professional and sexual energies involve him with a succession of women and enable him to enjoy much bizarre high life.

Some of the scenes include detailed descriptions of sexual violence and perversion as party entertainment and nothing offsets the impression given by these scenes and much else that promiscuity, violence, and perversion are being glamorised and offered for vicarious pleasure.

This is to deal with sex in a manner injurious to the public good.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the book The Mosque by Robert J. Hensler, published by New English Library, London.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

This novel is a crude portrayal of a negro slave's cruel suffering, his escape, his progress as a champion fighter, and his eventual return to his master's plantation to immolate himself in destroying all he can lay hold of.

It has the predictable white girl torturing him sexually through her racial supremacy and the offensiveness of the scene in which she first exploits him is exceeded only by that in which he takes his perverted revenge on her.

The book is simply an exploitation of sex and violence and brings no understanding or feeling to the portrayal of the relationships it presents.

The Tribunal classifies the book as indecent.

No. 303

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

Mr P. J. Downey appeared on behalf of the applicant and made submissions.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

The book is offered as the third part of the memoirs of a flea, the earlier parts being claimed as well-known classics of erotic writing. The introduction says that the "charm" of these earlier volumes is present here, too, along with "the same wit, the same sly humour, the same lascivious observations".

Whatever those volumes may have had, this particular one is tedious, trivial, and harmless. Mr Downey submitted that it was to be taken as a lighthearted joke. It is to be hoped that anyone who pays $2 for it on the strength of this introduction and the blurb on the cover has sufficient sense of humour to realise that this was the writer's intention, and does not reach the more painful conclusion that the joke has been on him for buying it.

The Tribunal classifies the book as not indecent.

No. 304

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by Murdoch Riley, company director, of Wellington, for a decision in respect of the book Confessions of a Pinup, anonymous, published by Belmont Books, New York.

Mr P. J. Downey appeared on behalf of the applicant and made submissions.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

There is nothing of any substance in this worthless novel by way of characterisation or story to interfere with the simple appeal it makes to wallow in grossly offensive incidents of sexual indulgence. This is to deal with sex in a manner injurious to the public good.

The Tribunal classifies the book as indecent.

R. S. V. SIMPSON, Chairman.

13 July 1971.

No. 305

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

There was no appearance of the applicant. Mr P. J. Downey appeared on behalf of the distributors of the book in New Zealand and made submissions.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

The Tribunal has considered closely comparable books in its decisions No. 200, 222, and 223. The book before us is in fact a variant version of that discussed in the third of those decisions. The main differences are that the couple who demonstrate the positions are now naked and that the poses are more natural. The captions are the same and nothing has been added to provide more text.
In classifying as indecent the two books dealt with in decisions No. 222 and 223, the Tribunal said that "the distinction between straight enlightenment and pornography (where people are being got at) is often a nice one. Here it is largely a matter of tone and quality; the subject deserves an honest treatment and the proliferation of cheap and shallow manuals of this kind is in our opinion not in the public interest."

In those decisions the Tribunal referred to its earlier decision No. 200, in which the book Sexual Techniques was found to be acceptable in treatment and quality and allowed unrestricted circulation. Mr Downey submitted that Naked Sex Positions should be classed with Sexual Techniques and not with the two books rejected in decisions No. 222 and 223.

None of these books has been easy to classify. Two features of the present book which affect the matter are, firstly, the slightness of the text accompanying the photographs; it is sufficient to explain the positions but lacks the fuller discussion which Sexual Techniques has of individual needs and problems, and, secondly, the title and the cover description ("actual photographs", "exciting variety in sex positions") which show, to some degree, an interest in getting at people. The printing of the caption on the facing page makes possible the displaying of the individual photographs in a way that emphasises the physical act and denies the context within which it is presented in the book as a whole.

The Tribunal has weighed all these matters and concludes by a narrow margin that the book should be available to adults. In reaching its decision, the Tribunal wishes to reiterate the observation it made in decision No. 178, that restriction "involves restriction on displays as well as distribution, for section 21 of the Act makes it clear that the mere exhibition of a document to any person in whose hands it has been declared indecent imposes an offence of strict liability under the Act. As with all books so classified, if the Tribunal's decisions are enforced, such a restriction effectively precludes their open display in shops.

The Tribunal classifies the book Naked Sex Positions as indecent in the hands of persons under 18 years of age.

R. S. V. SIMPSON, Chairman.

13 July 1971.

No. 306-308
Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by Murdoch Riley, company director, of Wellington, for decisions in respect of the books Peeping Tom Illustrated by Alan Gene, Lesbian Expose by Alan Melville, and The Kama Sutra Illustrated by Vatsyayan, all published by Ben's Books, London, in 1970.

Mr P. J. Downey appeared for the applicant and made submissions.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

In each of these three paperbacks, the text serves as an excuse for publishing series of photographs which can only be described as vulgar and intended to be salacious.

In the first two the text purports to be a discussion of two sexual devices, but the second use of the text is in inverse proportion to the provocative poses of the so obviously "staged" photographs. In the case of the Kama Sutra, the photographs bear no direct relevance to the text, which is adequately available in authentic editions.

The Tribunal classifies all three as indecent.

R. S. V. SIMPSON, Chairman.

13 July 1971.

No. 309
Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the book Sutra by Alan Metcalf, and The Kama Sutra Illustrated by Vatsyayan, all published by New English Library in 1971.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

This is a rather bitter-sweet novel, narrated by its protagonist, a young divorcée, mother of three—unsure of herself, her sex, perhaps even, sometimes, her identity.

While some fairly explicit sexual activity has its place in the novel, it is neither over-dominant nor developed out of character with the individuals portrayed in the book. The relationships between them are genuine ones.

The Tribunal classifies the book as not indecent.

R. S. V. SIMPSON, Chairman.

13 July 1971.

No. 310-311
Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the book Teach Yourself Seduction by Roy Traube, published by New English Library, London, and in the matter of an application by Murdoch Riley, company director, of Wellington, for a decision in respect of the book Sex Fun and Games by Roy Traube, published by Belmont Books, New York.

There was no appearance on the application made by the Comptroller of Customs. Mr P. J. Downey appeared on behalf of Murdoch Riley and made submissions in respect of the book Sex Fun and Games.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

These two paperback books by Roy (or Ruy) Traube have a common purpose and that is to explain the technique of seduction and slow-making love.

In both book case histories are also detailed to support the theories of the author. We do not accept the case histories as being genuine and furthermore we are of the opinion that the books have no honesty of purpose (section 11 (1) and in fact consist of nothing but a recital of sexual experiences described in purient language. There are few redeeming features.

The Tribunal classifies the books as indecent.

R. S. V. SIMPSON, Chairman.

13 July 1971.

No. 312-313
Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for decisions in respect of the books Laughs Between the Sheets, Volumes 1 and 2, published by Humour House.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

These two paperbacks published by the Humour House consist of black and white cartoons with captions interspersed with a series of stories, jokes, limericks, and poems.

Sex is used as the vehicle for the so-called humour. Many of the stories and the illustrations are in poor taste and vulgar. There is no merit in the publication. There is enough that could be depraving for us to classify them as indecent.

The Tribunal classifies the books as indecent.
