In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of a reference to the Tribunal under section 12 (1) of the said Act of the said Application No. 595-1972 by Detective Inspector George R. Simpson, New Zealand Police, for a decision and report in terms of the said section in respect of the following books: A Trilogy of Sex Patterns, Incert—The Sibling Syndrome, The Sexual Woman; The Audition, The Godson; The Professional, The Commissary L.S.D. by S. V. Simpсон, Chairman.

The Tribunal classifies these books as indecent.

Sunny Girl Book II

This is a collection of photographs of partially-clad women in a variety of suggestive poses. The intent is not so much to display the beauty of the human body as to arouse a prurient response from the reader. It lacks honesty of purpose, and the Tribunal classifies it as indecent.

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by Marketing Services (N.Z.) Ltd. for a decision in respect of the book The Professional, anonymous, published by Openleaves, Sydney.

Mr Downey, solicitor, appeared on behalf of the applicant and made submissions.

Decision of the Tribunal

This book, published in Australia, is basically a picture book with a short text interspersed between the photographs. The cover describes the book as "the intimate portrayal in photographs of a day in the life of a woman of pleasure". There is no over emphasis on the sex act itself and in so far as the story is concerned it would not encourage the young to embark on a life of prostitution. There is no theme of cruelty, perversion, or violence and considering the book as a whole the Tribunal considers it should not be denied to adults.

Nevertheless because of the explicit nature of the text and photos the Tribunal feels that it is not desirable that it should be made available to young persons.

The Tribunal classifies this book as indecent in the hands of people under the age of 18 years.

DECEPTION OF THE TRIBUNAL

In this novel a young married woman, sensitive to a scar on her face, leaves her husband of three months, immerses herself in group sex experience and then returns to her husband, her hang-up miraculously dissipated by over-indulgence. The thin story line, the puppet characters, and the repeated detail of sexual encounters together call in question the author’s honesty of purpose.

The Tribunal classifies this book as indecent.

No. 615

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher’s representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECEPTION OF THE TRIBUNAL

This book is a collection of essays and vignettes by Robert Beck, writing under the name of Iceberg Slim. Material on the author supplied by counsel for the publisher’s agent in New Zealand supports the immediate impression that the book itself conveys of the intensity and seriousness of Beck’s exploration of Black American experience. The book hits hard. The sordidness and viciousness of some of this experience are not spared, but the treatment of these matters is in keeping with the spirit of the book as a whole—a painfully earnest struggle to understand and to communicate that understanding. It is a serious work, presented for, and deserving of, serious attention. There is no reason to restrict its circulation.

The Tribunal classifies this book as not indecent.

R. S. V. SIMPSON, Chairman.

No. 616

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the sound recording Step by Step Instruction in Sexual Technique by Miss Tuppy Owens, produced by Sexual Rapsody Records, London.

There was no appearance of the applicant, Mr Campbell appeared on behalf of the importer and made submissions.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

As this is the first sound recording to be submitted to the Tribunal for classification, we have given careful consideration to the application of the Act to this field.

The first question to which the Tribunal has had to address itself is “Does the definition of ‘indecent’ in section 2 of the Act have the same meaning when applied to the spoken word as it has from the written word?” The written word is more personal and individual. A book or an article is read or studied or enjoyed generally in the privacy of the reader’s thoughts. A recording, however, almost inevitably becomes a centre of group activity and enjoyment. And just as conduct acceptable in the privacy of one’s home can be indecent in public, so a sound recording may not be acceptable where an article or book using the same material would be. A pamphlet of sex instruction manual, produced with restraint and honesty of purpose, but containing in print the same words as those spoken on the record, might not necessarily be indecent in terms of the Act. A sound recording, from its nature, is open to question as a suitable medium for instruction in such a personal matter as sexual techniques.

The recording is not an objective and detached lecture imparting sex education and information. It comprises alternating emotionally charged descriptions and instructions by a male and a female partner of sophisticated love-play and coitus, accompanied by background music of a provocatively erotic character. The language used is frank but not coarse, and the dialogue clearly intended to be sexually provocative and stimulating.

Applying the criteria contained in section 11 of the Act, in the Tribunal’s view the recording does not have either literary merit or social or scientific importance; the dominant effect of the recording is to incite rather than to inform and taken in conjunction with the fact that it will inevitably be used for group listening this calls in question the honesty of purpose of the makers of the record.

The jacket submitted with the record is exhibitionist and obscene. However, Mr Campbell advised that this cover would not be sold in New Zealand and he produced the one to be used which was plain and to which no objection could be taken.

The Tribunal classifies this recording as indecent.
