No. 763

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

A written submission was received from the applicant.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

The Harem Omnibus

This is a paperback book containing two short narratives, the first entitled The Lustful Turk and the second entitled A Night in a Moorish Harem. Each is anonymously written.

Each story is made up of a tedious sequence of descriptions of sexual encounters and experiences concentrating in particular on the deflowering of young women. The over-riding emphasis upon sexual activity and the lack of any compensating social or literary merit render these tales indecent within the terms of the Act.

The Tribunal classifies this book as indecent.

R. S. V. SIMPSON, Chairman.

No. 764

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by Denis William Shirley for a decision in respect of the book Over-Exposure by Denis William Shirley.

The applicant appeared but did not make submissions. Mr Barker, solicitor, appeared on behalf of the Secretary for Justice and made submissions.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

Over-Exposure

The definition of "book" in the Act means any book whether in manuscript or final form and on an earlier occasion the Tribunal considered a manuscript before publication, but in that case it consisted wholly of photographs.
This present application is in respect of a lengthy manuscript which includes some photographs. The author, Mr. D. W. Shirley, who appeared before the Tribunal but made no submissions, said, when questioned by the Tribunal, that he wished to publish the book as a paperback and he expected that the price would be about $4.

Submissions were made by the Secretary for Justice through Counsel Mr Barker, and these emphasised that the secretary was not urging the Tribunal to any particular decision.

The author claims to be a self-appointed crusader against censorship wherever it is imposed, and particularly censorship on the grounds of "indecency", and his book is intended to be an account of this crusade, as well as, it appears, a weapon for waging the crusade. The greater part of the book is a straightforward account of the author's experiences in running his bookshop in Auckland and his encounters with the law through the police, the courts and Mt Eden prison. It becomes in this way a vehicle for expounding his views on sexuality, philosophy, religion, political science, and human behaviour generally. Although there are evidences of what, in a younger person would be regarded as adolescent fervour leading to a lack of understanding of the long evolution of man and the societies and communities in which he lives, the case which the author makes for freedom of expression is competently argued, and there are no grounds for limiting or preventing the free expression of opinions and arguments on a matter of such general public interest as censorship.

But the manuscript does not stop there. It also contains a number of long and detailed descriptions of sexual episodes, some grossly deviant, and accounts of sexually explicit conversations. This and the inclusion of 73 photographic illustrations, most of which have no real relationship to the text, and are frankly pornographic, changes the character of the work.

As the Secretary for Justice said in his submission: "The problem is to balance and reconcile in terms of the present law these two elements in the manuscript—the experiences of the crusader against censorship and an impassioned argument against the present law on the one hand, and the possibly deliberate coat-trailing in the form of sexual episodes and photographs on the other."

It is the considered judgment of the Tribunal that the inclusion of this material so changes the dominant effect of the book that it becomes more an appeal to prurience than a crusading work to persuade those who support some control of the standards of social decency, of the error of their methods. In effect, therefore, the honesty of purpose of the book is at the least suspect. This does not imply that we cast doubt on the genuine belief of the author in the crusade he is promoting.

His main argument appears to be that no pornographic material can be "indecent" in terms of the Indecent Publications Act because material of this kind is not injurious to the public good. He quotes a number of authorities in support of this thesis. The Tribunal in previous decisions has referred at length to the interpretation of the word "indecent" by Woodhouse, J. in the case of Robson v. Hicks, Smith and Sons Ltd. 1965 N.Z.L.R. 1113 and has accepted this interpretation. In decision No. 470, The Little Red School Book, reference was also made to the judgment of Haslam, J. in the same case, in which he reached the conclusion that the primary element in the classification of a book under the Act was its effect upon the "public good". He went on to say that "this expression of variable content, designed to direct attention to the impact of a published work upon the community, is expressly left undefined, so that the Tribunal may exercise its statutory powers with due regard to changing conditions."

The learned Judge was there referring to the words of subsection (2) of section 2 of the Act where the Tribunal is specifically ordered not to classify a book as indecent if publication would be in the interests of art, literature, science, or learning, and would be for the public good. But in looking to the contrary effect "injurious to the public good" in defining the meaning of "indecent" under section 2, the Tribunal should similarly have regard to changing conditions.

No one would suggest that the evolution of man as a social animal has reached its zenith, and that the mores of our communities will not continue to evolve. But it has been a long struggle to reach a degree of conscious control and sublimation of primitive instincts to fight, to kill, to copulate, to take whatever catches one's eye, under the urge of unconscious and uncritical animalism. The public good and community well-being are built on this kind of evolution and the Tribunal cannot accept that the describing and depicting of sexual activities in the way in which they are described and depicted in this book would not be injurious to the public good.

The Secretary for Justice has suggested that if the Tribunal finds the manuscript indecent or indecent in certain hands simply because of the presence of the photographs or of particular passages in the text, it might feel it both proper and useful to indicate those parts with reasonable precision. Mr Shirley, when invited to make any comments on this suggestion said that he could not agree to, as he put it, "emasculate" the work by removing the objectionable passages and photographs. We think we have made our reasons for finding the work indecent sufficiently clear so that no further comment from us is necessary.

The Tribunal classifies this book as indecent.

R. S. V. SIMPSON, Chairman.

5. (1) Subject to the following provisions of this clause the maximum factory selling price that may be charged or received by G.K.N. (New Zealand) Ltd. for any wire products to which this order applies shall be the appropriate price fixed in the First Schedule hereto:

Provided that where the quantity of wire of one kind or more than one kind ordered by the buyer for delivery to any one destination outside the Auckland metropolitan area is less than 10 tonnes, the prices specified in the First Schedule may be increased by an amount not exceeding the difference between any railage rate per tonne that would have been incurred by G.K.N. And provided further that any such price may be increased where applicable by the appropriate extra charges referred to in the Second Schedule hereto.

(2) The maximum prices as aforesaid are fixed for deliveries as follows:

(b) Landed on wharf at Lyttelton, Timaru, Oamaru, Nelson, Greymouth, Dunedin, and Bluff.

(c) Sales not served by the freight paid points mentioned in (a) and (b) to be on the basis of f.o.r. Otahuhu or f.o.r. nearest freight paid point at buyer's option except that in the Auckland metropolitan area sales may, at the buyer's option, be ex works Otahuhu or on the basis of delivered to store at the company's approved basic prices plus an addition of $1.80 per tonne thereto.

(d) The Auckland metropolitan area is defined as follows:

The cities of Auckland and Takapuna, the boroughs of Henderson, New Lynn, Mount Albert, Mount Eden, Mount Roskill, Onehunga, Newmarket, One Tree Hill, Ellerslie, Mount Wellington, Otahuhu, Papatoetoe, and Papakura, the commercial centre of Pakuranga and all commercial areas along or adjacent to the Great South Road between Otahuhu and Papakura not otherwise included.
