

front moved on to the South Island on the 22nd and brought rain as far north as Christchurch. Fine weather persisted in the North Island except for a few showers in Northland. From the 23rd to the 27th a series of weak cold fronts moved over the country in a predominantly south-westerly flow and there was rain on each day in areas exposed to the south-west.

An anticyclone crossed the North Island on the 28th and 29th and moved rapidly away to the east on the 30th. It brought generally fine weather to the North Island. A cold front moving slowly northward over the South Island on the 29th and 30th gave heavy rain in the south-west of the South Island, with some places receiving a 3-day rainfall of an intensity which only occurs on the average once in 2 years. This cold front moved on to the North Island on the 31st and the weather cleared in the South Island during the day.
