In terms of section 25 (2) of the Reserve Bank of New Zealand Act 1976, the Reserve Bank today released outer limits for rates of exchange to be used in transactions involving the conversion of New Zealand currency into foreign currencies and foreign currencies into New Zealand currency when delivery of the foreign currency dealt in will be effected by telegraphic transfer. The following range of rates, for the main currencies used by New Zealand traders in settling foreign exchange transactions, will remain in force until replaced by a new schedule issued by the Reserve Bank, which will not apply to transactions for settlement after the expiration of two business days (forward transactions) or to transactions in which instruments are purchased which do not entitle the buyer to foreign currency balances at the foreign centre until the instruments have been delivered at the foreign centre. Exchange Rates

In terms of section 25 (2) of the Reserve Bank of New Zealand Act 1964, the Reserve Bank today released outer limits for rates of exchange to be used in transactions involving the conversion of New Zealand currency into foreign currencies and foreign currencies into New Zealand currency when delivery of the foreign currency dealt in will be effected by telegraphic transfer. The following range of rates, for the main currencies used by New Zealand traders in settling foreign exchange transactions, will remain in force until replaced by a new schedule issued by the Reserve Bank. These rates do not apply to transactions for settlement after the expiration of two business days (forward transactions) or to transactions in which instruments are purchased which do not entitle the buyer to foreign currency balances in the foreign centre until the instruments have been delivered at the foreign centre. In the latter case interest at foreign centre rates may be deducted from the telegraphic transfer rate to compensate the purchaser for his loss during the transit period.

The Standards Act 1965—Draft Amendment to New Zealand Standard Specification Available for Comment

Pursuant to subsection (3) of section 23 of the Standards Act 1965, notice is hereby given that the following draft amendment is being circulated.

Number and Description of Draft

DZ 5401/2A Draft amendment No. 2 to NZS 5401:1976 Seat belt assemblies for motor vehicles.

This proposed amendment would delete the requirements of clause 7.2.5 covering the area of the locking mechanism to which force has to be applied to release the buckle. This would allow the use in New Zealand of some superior types of overseas-produced buckles which are easier to release, but which still do not permit inadvertent release. Deletion of the specification for the size of the lettering of the release procedure is also proposed, but the new clause would provide for lettering to be clearly and permanently marked.

All persons who may be affected by this amendment and who desire to comment thereon may obtain copies from the Standards Association of New Zealand, World Trade Center, 15-23 Sturdee Street (or Private Bag), Wellington.

The closing date for the receipt of comment is 13 April 1979.

Dated at Wellington this 14th day of March 1979.

DENYS R. M. PINFOLD,
Director, Standards Association of New Zealand.

Myra and the Story of the Cognac

One day, Myra, a curious young girl, went on a journey to discover the secret of the finest Cognac. She set out early in the morning, eager to learn about the making of this exquisite drink.

As she walked through the countryside, Myra noticed a sign that read, "Enter the Vineyard at Your Own Risk." She was intrigued by the unusual warning and decided to explore further.

Upon entering the vineyard, Myra was greeted by the sight of rows of grapevines stretching as far as the eye could see. The sun was shining brightly, casting a warm glow over the entire scene. She couldn’t help but feel a sense of camaraderie with the plants, as if they were living creatures waiting to be harvested.

After a short walk, Myra came upon a group of vineyard workers, engrossed in their tasks. They seemed to understand each other’s movements and worked in perfect harmony, making the whole scene even more captivating.

As Myra approached, one of the workers turned to her and asked, "What brings you here, little lady?"

"I am here to learn about Cognac," Myra replied with a smile. "I want to know how it’s made and understand the secrets behind its production.

The worker nodded, "I see. Well, let me tell you..." He then began to explain the process of making Cognac, from the selection of grapes to the aging in oak barrels.

Myra listened intently, her eyes wide with wonder. She learned how the grapes are picked at the perfect moment, ensuring the best flavor and aroma. Then, they were pressed and fermented, before being aged in oak barrels for years to develop the rich, complex flavors.

Myra was amazed by the dedication and skill required to create such a beautiful beverage. "But why do you work so tirelessly to produce something so special?" she asked.

"Because Cognac is an art," the worker answered. "It’s a labor of love, and we strive to create something that will be enjoyed by people around the world for generations to come.

Myra thanked the worker for his time and knowledge, feeling a newfound appreciation for the process of making Cognac. As she walked back towards home, she couldn’t help but think of the many stories of Cognac that she had now added to her own.

The Adjusted Weighted Average Sale Price for the auction sale of wool held on 8 March 1979, at Dunedin, was 234.60 cents per kilogram.

As this price is above the Government Supplementary Minimum Wool Price of 205 cents per kilogram (greasy average basis) no supplement is payable.
