(OPS 41/682)
I wish it to be understood at the outset that I do not condone or support any of the terrorism or acts of violence committed by the Irish Republican Army or any group claiming to be of Catholic background, he told the Tribunal.

I am not concerned that the I.R.A. is shown in a bad light by television programmes and news items. I am concerned that the Corporation, as the body charged with the responsibility of objectively presenting the activities of one faction and ignores almost completely the equally atrocious activities of the other.

The Complaint

Mr Curran made a statutory declaration on 21 November 1978, complaining to some eight prior complaints of which he set out his criticism of news coverage in television in New Zealand for the past two years. He had compared presentation of news items in news broadcasts with copies of news supplied by Reuters to the New Zealand Press Association.

He claimed the television news broadcasts were consistent in their almost total exclusion of any items relating to acts of violence allegedly perpetrated by protected organisations such as the Ulster Volunteer Force, the Red Hand Commandoes or the Ulster Freedom Fighters. Pre-emience, he claimed, was given to incidents of violence by members of the Irish Republican Army or other pro-catholic groups. The effect of this practice was that he said to give an unbalanced view of the sources of violence and terrorism.

He gave a number of instances where a news item which he considered unfavourable to the I.R.A. was reported on television and another item which was unfavourable to a protestant faction was not reported.

He specifically complained about the lack of balance in a World Watch programme broadcast by T.V. 2 on 10 September 1978.

Mr Curran subsequently added some later news items to his complaints.

The Corporation considered his complaint which had been anticipated by earlier criticisms of television handling of events in Northern Ireland in 1976 and 1977.

At its meeting, on 13 February 1979, the Corporation considered the declaration he had forwarded and the subsequent letter from his solicitors. The following findings were made by the Corporation:

1. Although Mr Curran's affidavit complained about the lack of balance in a World Watch programme broadcast by T.V. 2 on 10 September 1978, the Corporation felt, therefore, that the complaint in its overall form could not be sustained.

2. Nevertheless it found that the World Watch programme, of 10 September 1978, was unbalanced in its treatment of the I.R.A.

3. The Corporation also acknowledged that Mr Curran brought to their attention evidence to suggest that great care should be taken to achieve a balanced presentation of events in Northern Ireland, by a closer study of the merits of wire service reports in relation to filmed reports. On this point the Director-General of T.V. 2 has made specific acknowledgment of T.V. 2's error in not recognising the significance of the international wire copy relating to the incident raised separately in your letter of 15 January.

Mr Curran was told that the Corporation's findings and amplifying observations had been drawn to the attention of the appropriate staff by their Directors-General.

The 15 January letter referred to a report carried by T.V. 1 news which accurately reported an incident involving a priest's information on an bombing campaign in Britain, making it clear that the priest had given the Northern Ireland Office the information when the British Foreign Office was dissatisfied with the Corporation's decision. He said that in its presentation of news items and current affairs programmes concerning Northern Ireland, in the period July 1977 to 10 February 1978, the Corporation had to have regard in the items and programmes to the accurate and impartial gathering and presentation of news according to the recognised standards of objective journalism in breach of section 24 (1) (b), and failed to have regard to the principle that when controversial issues of public importance
Mr Curran, incidentally, was unhappy at the wording of paragraph 2 of the Corporation's findings. He was concerned about the programme but noted the failure of television to give coverage of an event three or four days previously when a self-confessed member of the UDA had pleaded guilty to the murder of Mr Curran's father in 1971. He was also concerned that the Corporation had not fully grasped the terms of his complaint or they would have found that it was “unbalanced in its omission of any reference to the criminal activities of the illegal protestant groups operating in Northern Ireland.”

It is the general failure of the Corporation's television coverage of Northern Ireland to show that terrorism is carried out by protestant groups and to name those groups that concerns him as he considers it leaves the impression that the only terrorist organisation is the I.R.A. He also considers there to be some anti-catholic anti-Irish bias which we will refer to later.

In his submissions to us he summed up his dissatisfaction as follows:

a. The Corporation finding that my “complaint in its overall form could not be sustained.”

b. The Corporation's failure in making its finding to answer objectively of the complaint as the organisation, has received 16 life sentences for a bomb attack in which 15 people had been killed. He felt the Corporation had not fully grasped the terms of his complaint or they would have found that it was “unbalanced in its omission of any reference to the criminal activities of the illegal protestant groups operating in Northern Ireland.”

c. The Corporation's failure after finding that the World Watch programme, of 10 September 1978 was unbalanced to take any effective steps to redress an imbalance.

d. The Corporation's continued failure since that time to ensure:

(i) That the presentation of its television news broadcasts dealing with events in Northern Ireland has been objective and impartial.

(ii) That the presentation of other television programmes relating to the Arab /Israeli conflict and similar issues which arouse controversy in this country as well as overseas to keep some record of the treatment given and to review it from time to time.

We were given no information about the television channels' arrangements for the Corporation to be represented at the hearing of the complaint on behalf of the Corporation.

At the request of the Tribunal, the Editor of T.V. 1 news, Mr Eckhoff, kindly appeared at short notice to give what assistance he could to Mr Curran claim in respect of Northern Ireland news comes mainly from the B.B.C. and sometimes from N.B.C.

Mr Eckhoff also investigated some particular news items referred to by Mr Curran and was able to inform Mr Curran that on a number of the occasions he referred to, where he considered television film coverage should have been given, no film was received.

It is fair to say that Mr Curran is convinced that there is a pattern of broadcasting conduct ranging right across from the New Zealand Corporation to the local productions that portray catholic Irish interests adversely. The Tribunal finds no grounds for sharing that view.

It was therefore not possible for the Tribunal to rely entirely on his analysis of balancing items as there were at least two instances, one relating to drama and one news item (reporting the death of Ian Paisley disturbing the sitting of the European Parliament) which he did not mention although he had brought a number of items to our attention that were outside the period of his complaint.

On the other hand there was a difficulty as far as the Tribunal was concerned in that the Corporation, despite the number of complaints made by Mr Curran had not apparently instituted any method of keeping tallies of Northern Ireland coverage.

We intend to deal with the matters in the order in which he set out the issues in his submission to us.

(a) We do support Mr Curran's complaint that the Corporation finding that his “complaint in its overall form could not be sustained” was an unsatisfactory method of determining its decision on his complaint. In fact, the Tribunal does not consider a lack of balance in a World Watch programme and should have clearly upheld his complaint in part unless there was evidence of balancing material.

We do not however find that there is sufficient evidence to sustain the view that the Corporation's television coverage generally is in breach of the statutory standards. The Corporation has the factual evidence to find out if that was the position. It did not do so.

(b) The Corporation could well have provided information from its television services which Mr Curran specifically had some interest but apparently no attempt was made to give him the information as to the availability of certain news items which had not even been obtained in part by Mr Eckhoff at our request.

(c) Television Two should have taken reasonable efforts following the complaint to have shown the programme in the World Watch item. There is no information before us that any attempt has been made to do so. The finding of the Corporation has therefore had little practical effect from Mr Curran's point of view.

Several items referred to by Mr Curran as unpublished appear likely to have been available to television in the United Kingdom, but there was then no appropriate to make a judgment that they should have been inserted in any particular bulletin without full knowledge of the news situation on that day and the other items available for presentation. There were some reports published and we can understand that it is difficult for a news organisation to appreciate Mr Curran's dissatisfaction with a news item which was heavily unfavourable to protestant elements but which did not name the organisations under which they operated in their terrorist activities and therefore did not meet his criterion for satisfactory reportage.

(d) It must be remembered that the volume of wire service news coming into New Zealand is limited by the capacity of even a newspaper to publish. Selections therefore have to be made and we think it is important in relation to issues such as Northern Ireland, the Arab /Israeli conflict and similar issues which arouse controversy in this country as well as overseas to keep some record of the treatment given and to review it from time to time. We do not know whether there was a breach of the statutory standards and we do not consider that the time and effort that would be involved in attempting to establish this would be justified. But neither does the Corporation know. The Corporation can, however, ensure that balance is achieved and that the proper effort is made to go to the maximum concerned that there is (at T.V. 1 anyway) no regular procedure for ensuring objectivity and impartiality in the treatment of overseas controversial issues. It should be possible to detect undesirable trends in coverage and to take positive steps to redress balance when necessary.

Mr Eckhoff told us that a watch is kept for distortion by too much coverage of one event and less of another in all news broadcasts, but only in certain matters such as New Zealand election campaigns which is an obviously illiberal view. There is daily contact with Visnews editors in Sydney and through them contact can be made to London; sometimes there is direct contact with London. It is possible to have a specific brief on particular topics. The general brief to Visnews as to coverage of Northern Ireland might need to be revised.
In addition, it is possible specifically to request coverage of certain known events or certain types of coverage. The Corporation's news editors should give consideration to taking some such steps if they detect imbalance occurring.

We reject entirely Mr Curran's thesis that in the presentation of its material generally, the Corporation is unbalanced. In support of this he suggested that within a short period of showing a documentary about a poor part of Ireland, local productions of the "God Boy" and "Shining with Shiner" were screened and there was an alleged "laxity" by Television One reporting of the Irish situation and having an Ulsterman from New Zealand report on Northern Ireland—all this occurring about an historically significant time of the year. This argument is untenable. In response to questions Mr Curran did not seriously suggest that plays ought to be balanced but did correctly consider that dramatised documentaries fell into that category.

We are satisfied that there is no censorship or particular emphasis in television programming intended to show a distorted view of the Irish situation. At the same time we are concerned that proper steps be taken by television to monitor its own news and current affairs activities and to ensure that such criticism be made in the future, it will be possible to determine whether or not the coverage has been fair and balanced because television editors have been taking the necessary steps to see that it is.

Mr Curran's complaint is upheld in part.

Co-Opted Members

In accordance with section 67 (1) empowers the Tribunal to co-opt two members whose qualifications or experience are likely to be of assistance to the Tribunal in the determination of the complaint.

ECONOMICS OF THE NEW ZEALAND MAORI
By Raymond Firth
519 p. 1972. $8.75-
The Maori people are honourably known far outside the confines of their New Zealand home. Acknowledged to be one of the finest of the native races within the British Commonwealth they have long been celebrated for their splendid physical appearance, their proud bearing, their aristocratic spirit, their fluent oratory, and above all for their prowess in war. This book contains an account of the social and economic organisation of the Maori people before the organisation was transformed by contact with Western civilisation. It is a major scientific contribution to economic anthropology and has now become a standard work.

The effects of race and socio-economic status on juvenile offending statistics
31 p. 1975. $1
This report examines the extent to which the difference in European and non-European offending rates reflects variations in the socio-economic distributions of the two populations. The results indicate that, while a substantial proportion of the difference in offending rates between the two racial groups can be attributed to socio-economic factors, the larger part of this difference cannot be accounted for in this way. Both the theoretical and the practical implications of this finding are discussed. (Research Unit, Joint Committee on Young Offenders.)

FOREST LORE OF THE MAORI
By Elsdon Best
DOMINION MUSEUM BULLETIN No. 14
421 p. 1977. $17.95
Printed without textual alteration, the work provides an important basis for any study of old-time Maori economics and perhaps more importantly of his attitude to what was a major part of his environment. It will be of more general interest today than when first written, since it stresses so fully the uses made by the Maori people of their natural resources, and supplies basic material for further studies in ethnobotany and ethnozoology. The reverence which the old time Maori showed towards natural resources mirrors the modern concern for ecological principles.
