

been rejected for exhibition by the Chief Censor of Films. There were no submissions.

Having conducted a review of the film, and in accordance with its authority under section 84 (5) of the Act, the Board rejected the film for exhibition according to the criteria of section 26 (2) for lack of artistic merit (b), and the extent and degree to which, and the manner in which, the film depicts sex and offensive language (c).

The film is an animated feature satirising the traditional exploits and character of Tarzan. Its use of language and explicit treatment of sex was felt to be gratuitous to the degree of prurient exploitation.

The artistic merit of the film was considered and although it was conceded that the animation is meritorious and some of the humour acceptable, it was not felt that this compensated for the general crudeness of the humour and the language. It was also felt that the film's novelty lies mainly in its vulgarity. Consideration was also given to the possibility of setting an unfortunate precedent by approving such indecent material for exhibition.

It was noted that the film had been advertised as part of the programme for the Auckland Film Festival. The Board had been asked to review the film for general exhibition or alternatively for film festival purposes and, therefore, did consider its suitability for a limited film festival audience. Even in this limited context the film was considered unsuitable for exhibition for the reasons outlined in relation to its general exhibition.
