Decision of Films Censorship Board of Review

PURSUANT to section 82 of the Cinematograph Films Act 1976, Columbia Warner Distributors applied for a review of the film The Exterminator. Having viewed the film in Wellington on 17 July 1981, the Film Board of Review unanimously decided to refuse the film for exhibition.

The film, a dramatic thriller, follows the actions of its hero John Eastland in his one-man battle against crime in New York City. The opening of the film set its tone. Eastland and other members of his unit have been captured by the Viet Cong in Vietnam. In an endeavor to elude incarceration from their captives the Viet Cong decapitate one of the Americans. Another American, Jefferson, succeeds in garotting one of his captors. Eastland and Jefferson escape. The decapitation and garotting are explicitly shown on screen.

Eastland's campaign against crime in New York City is provoked by a gang attack on his friend Jefferson, whose neck is deliberately broken leaving him paralyzed. Initially Eastland's revenge is limited to the gang but he subsequently extends it to other criminal elements including a Mafia boss and the proprietor of a homosexual brothel. Eastland ultimately ends his friend's life by switching off his hospital life support machine. Although his activities attract the attention of both the New York Police and the CIA, he evades death in a final shootout at the Brooklyn Naval Yard and, in the last scene is shown swimming to the shore of the East River.

The Exterminator is a good quality film, well produced, well photographed and reasonably well edited. Violence, however, is central to its theme and was the dominant effect of the film. Some but not all of the scenes in the film were explicit. Other acts of violence occurred offscreen but with no doubt left as to what had occurred. Violent acts included a decapitation; a garotting; a gang attack with knives and chains; the torturing of a young prostitute with a soldering iron; killing a guard dog with an electric knife, lowering a Mafia boss into a meat mixer; burning a brothel proprietor to death; a number of gunshot wounds:

Although any one of these events in isolation is no worse than a number of scenes of violence in other films which have been approved for exhibition in New Zealand, in this film such scenes are numerous and central to the film's theme. The cumulative effect is a film of sustained violence. The moral justification for Eastland's actions is, at best, dubious.

Having regard to the type of audience likely to view this film the Board considered that the variety of weaponry and the detailed portrayal of various methods of violence could well provide material for imitation in this country.

Having regard to the dominant effect of the film as a whole; its likely effect on the audience likely to view it; and the extent and degree to which the film depicted the violence, the Board determined that The Exterminator was likely to be injurious to the public good.

THE NEW ZEALAND GAZETTE No. 102
STATEMENT OF ACCOUNTS

Statement of accounting policies—The general accounting principles as recommended by the New Zealand Society of Accountants for the measurement and reporting of results and financial position on a historical cost basis have been followed in the preparation of these financial statements. The following particular accounting policies which significantly affect the measurement of the bank's profit and financial position have required. In our opinion proper accounting records have been kept by the bank, so far as appears from our examination of the accounts.

Depreciation—Depreciable fixed assets are depreciated on a straight line basis at rates estimated to write off the cost, less residual value, over the useful life of each class of asset. The principle rates in use are:
- Buildings 1 percent and 2¼ percent.
- Office equipment, fixtures and fittings 10 percent and 20 percent.

Fixed deposits—Coupon maturity dates cover the period 9 April, 1981, to 9 January, 1982. As these investments can be realised as liquidity conditions dictate they have been treated as Current Assets.

GENERAL PUBLICATIONS

THE MAORI AS HE WAS

By Elsdon Best

295 p. 1974 reprint. $6.50 plus 70c p & p

Fifty years of public demand since this book was first published resulted in the need for reprints in 1934 and 1952. The text has been reproduced unchanged but the originals of some of the figures could not be traced and these have been replaced with similar illustrations. There have been many advances in our knowledge of Maori life since this book first appeared. The work of numerous ethnologists, and more recently archaeologists, has critically examined many of the earlier concepts, confirming some, disproving others, and altering others to varying degrees. No one has yet produced a synthesis of the results of all this scholarship and there is still nothing as comprehensive as this book of Best’s to give a general account of the Maori. This book was first published when Best was 68 and thus represents the accumulated knowledge of a lifetime. It has now become a classic introduction to Maori life. Its continued availability should help the reader to obtain a basic background to old time Maori life which can be extended by further reading.

NATIONAL PARKS OF NEW ZEALAND

The revision of this popular publication has included numerous new colour plates and additional information on some of our parks. In addition to the book being an ideal souvenir for the overseas visitor it makes an ideal gift and also a valuable asset to anyone’s home library.

NATIONAL MUSEUM MONOGRAPHS
