Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

BEFORE THE INDECENT PUBLICATIONS TRIBUNAL

His Honour Judge Willis (chairman), Mesdames L. Edmond, H. B. Dick, L. P. Nikera, and Mr J. V. B. McLinden.

Appeal: Mr P. E. F. M. LeLoir for Comptroller of Customs. Written submission by Murray J. Swann.

Decision

Hollywood Rated X is a single copy of a private importation seized at Christchurch in April 1980. As Mr Swann has disputed forfeiture, the Customs Department has referred the publication to the Tribunal for classification prior to the commencement of condemnation proceedings pursuant to the Customs Act 1966.

Book type and length: Hollywood Rated X is a soft covered publication some 65 pages long. The publication measures 21 cm × 27.5 cm. There is little text and the main part of the publication is given over to a display of black and white photographs.

The primary purpose of the publication seems to be to publish photographs of naked male American personalities. The publication’s inside cover advertises a cash reward for nude photos of famous people.

Mr LeLior for the Comptroller of Customs contended that the publication was primarily concerned with displaying nude or near nude males with considerable emphasis on the genital area. He stated that the magazine was designed to arouse prurient interest, that there was no literary or other merit in the publication, and that there was considerable doubt as to the honesty of purpose of the publisher.

Mr Swann made a short written submission which went little further than merely to state his view that his magazine was not indecent and that his rights as a New Zealand citizen had been abused in that his mail had been opened and the publication had been seized.

The Tribunal accepts Mr LeLior’s submissions. The Tribunal rules that the publication deals with sex in a manner that is injurious to the public good for a combination of the following reasons.

Neither the object of, nor the content in, the publication is of any social or artistic merit. There are numerous photographs depicting males in a patently offensive manner so as to draw the reader’s attention to the prurient and lewd aspects of sex. In the circumstance the Tribunal has grave doubts as to the sincerity of purpose of the publisher.

For the above reasons the Tribunal classifies Hollywood Rated X as indecent.

Dated at Wellington this 11th day of November 1980.

Judge W. M. WILLIS, Chairman.
Decision No. 969 (a)
Reference No. Ind. 8/80

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision as to the classification of the following publications: Pillow Talk, Vols. 3, 4, 5, and 7, published by Carla Publishing Inc., 208 East 43rd Street, New York, U.S.A.

Before the Indecent Publications Tribunal

Judge W. M. Willis (chairman), Mesdames L. Edmond, H. B. Dick, L. P. Nikera, and Mr J. V. B. McLinden.

Decision: 15 December 1980.

Decision

These magazines have been submitted by the importers for classification. The magazines sub-titled The Monthly Journal of Sexual Fulfilment, contain articles about a great variety of aspects of sex, and a substantial section of letters from readers, some followed by advice on sexual problems. Topics dealt with in the articles include divorce and re-adjustment, sport and sex, guilt and sex, the law, the language of prostitution, sexual fantasies, sex and the church, and methods of contraception. The advice given is sensible and reassuring, obviously written by people who have real doubts and anxieties about sex. The letters without advice are indulgent at times, but these too are likely to be found helpful and informative in certain or all respects.

On behalf of the Comptroller it was submitted that Pillow Talk was more restrained in presentation than the magazines Sexology and Forum which were classified as being indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 18 years in December 1981 and 913, it was further submitted that their availability would not be injurious to the public good. Similar submissions were made on behalf of the importer. The Tribunal gathers the impression from the submissions made, that each would prefer a restriction order rather than having the publications which were not classified as indecent, these publications should receive no restriction. His concluding remarks were:

If these comics and the frivolous adventures of their amusingly bizarre characters are to be considered indecent in New Zealand when other comics involving people stargazing around with their entrails half ripped out, or their heads severed from their bodies are not, books involving people voicing their erotic ideas, or books for fun aren't, magazines featuring close ups of female genitalia and comic strips which have nudity as their only facet of interest aren't, then I think the whole thing is rather silly, and I hope Mr LeLoir is not trying to protect me and the other citizens of this country from.

In considering the classification of these comics, the Tribunal accepts the submission by Mr LeLoir that it must have regard to the provisions contained in section 11 (3) of the Indecent Publications Act which states:

When the Tribunal decides that any picture-story book likely to be read by children is indecent in the hands of children under a specified age, that picture-story book shall be deemed to be indecent in the hands of all persons.

It can be seen from the wording in the above provisions, that before section 11 (3) becomes operative, the Tribunal must be satisfied that the picture story in question is likely to be read by children. As already stated, the material under consideration in this case is, in our view, unlikely to be read by children.

In passing we note that although the provisions of section 11 (3) were set out by the Tribunal in decisions 767-780 of 14 December 1973 (those decisions concerned similar publications and Mr LeLoir in the course of his helpful submissions drew our attention to them), the Tribunal did not specifically discuss the issue of whether any of the publications therein were likely to be read by the public in the light of those decisions were considered only on the basis that they were likely to be read by children. As already stated, with the greatest of respect to the Tribunal's earlier decisions, the material under consideration in this case is, in our view, unlikely to be read by children.

Decision No. 970
Reference No. Ind. 10/80

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs in respect of the following publications: The Fabulous Furry Freak Brothers No. 5; Collected Adventures of the Fabulous Furry Freak Brothers; Further Adventures of Those Fabulous Furry Freak Brothers; A Year Passes Like Nothing With the Fabulous Furry Freak Brothers, published by Rip Off Press Inc., San Francisco, California.

Before the Indecent Publications Tribunal

Judge W. M. Willis (chairman), Mesdames L. Edmond, H. B. Dick, L. P. Nikera, and Mr J. V. B. McLinden.

Appearances: Mr P. E. F. M. LeLoir for Comptroller of Customs. Written submissions by Mr J. M. Smyth.

Decision

These are four cartoon comics seized from Mr Smyth at Auckland in January 1980. As he has applied for waiver of restrictions, the Customs Department has referred them to the Tribunal for classification.

Book type and length: These publications follow a typical cartoon comic type presentation. They are 18 cm x 26 cm in size and are soft covered and are each approximately 48 pages long. The publishers describe themselves as "publishers of the American 'establishment' society."

Mr LeLoir submitted that the publications fell within what are known as "adult" comics. They were offensive in that they acknowledged an acceptance of drug taking as a normal way of life, that there were episodes of violence and that in many cases the language was coarse and offensive.

Further, he submitted that the comics were picture story books and were covered by section 11 (3) of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and as such these publications were similar to others considered by the Tribunal (decisions 767-780 of 14 December 1973) and classified as indecent.

Mr Smyth explained that he had purchased the comics in a bookshop in Australia for a friend of his who collected underground comics. He stated after his friend had seized him investigated numerous other comics on sale in New Zealand bookshops. He submitted that having regard to the publications which were not classified as indecent, these publications should receive no restriction. His concluding remarks were:

If these comics and the frivolous adventures of their amusingly bizarre characters are to be considered indecent in New Zealand when other comics involving people stargazing around with their entrails half ripped out, or their heads severed from their bodies aren't, books involving people voicing their erotic ideas, or books for fun aren't, magazines featuring close ups of female genitalia and comic strips which have nudity as their only facet of interest aren't, then I think the whole thing is rather silly, and I hope Mr LeLoir is not trying to protect me and the other citizens of this country from.

In considering the classification of these comics, the Tribunal accepts the submission by Mr LeLoir that it must have regard to the provisions contained in section 11 (3) of the Indecent Publications Act which states:

When the Tribunal decides that any picture-story book likely to be read by children is indecent in the hands of children under a specified age, that picture-story book shall be deemed to be indecent in the hands of all persons.

It can be seen from the wording in the above provisions, that before section 11 (3) becomes operative, the Tribunal must be satisfied that the picture story in question is likely to be read by children. As already stated, the material under consideration in this case is, in our view, unlikely to be read by children.

In passing we note that although the provisions of section 11 (3) were set out by the Tribunal in decisions 767-780 of 14 December 1973 (those decisions concerned similar publications and Mr LeLoir in the course of his helpful submissions drew our attention to them), the Tribunal did not specifically discuss the issue of whether any of the publications therein were likely to be read by the public in the light of those decisions were considered only on the basis that they were likely to be read by children. As already stated, with the greatest of respect to the Tribunal's earlier decisions, the material under consideration in this case is, in our view, unlikely to be read by children.

However, our view is that even if the provisions of section 11 (3) are applied to the present publications, we would not be prepared to declare them indecent.

The provisions of section 11 (3) set out above make it clear that the comics are subject to more stringent control than other types of printed matter in that once the material is deemed by the Tribunal to be indecent in the hands of a child, the Tribunal is allowed no discretion to impose even an age restriction classification. In effect therefore, when it comes to picture books likely to be read by children, the standards of the adult community give way to a consideration of the effect the publication may have on a child. Mr Smyth's submission that in the course of his investigations he was led to believe that the Tribunal had passed, albeit on a restricted basis, decisions on others, we are unable to reach a conclusion in this case. We think that the content and humour of the publications would be difficult for young readers to comprehend, and we also think that the presentation of the publications would be unattractive to children and accordingly for both reasons, that they would be unlikely to read the publications.

The Tribunal also notes that the provisions of section 11 (3) do not apply when the cartoon or comic strip is published in the context of a paper or magazine, because normally such publications could not be construed as picture story books. The Tribunal wishes to stress the importance of the context in which the cartoon is published. Mr Smyth's submission that in the course of his investigations he was led to believe that the Tribunal had passed, albeit on a restricted basis, decisions on others, we are unable to reach a conclusion in this case. We think that the content and humour of the publications would be difficult for young readers to comprehend, and we also think that the presentation of the publications would be unattractive to children and accordingly for both reasons, that they would be unlikely to read the publications.

Because the publications Penthouse and Playboy magazine. Because the publications Penthouse and Playboy cannot be described as picture story books the provisions of section 11 (3) do not apply to them. If they could be, or if a collection making the Wicked Wanda or Anny Fanny cartoons were published in their own right, there is little doubt the Tribunal would declare the cartoons indecent.

Conversely, if the Fabulous Furry Freak Brothers cartoons had appeared in a context other than that of a picture story book, the provisions of section 11 (3) would not then need to have been considered.

In our view the general observations, the Tribunal now wishes to turn to consider the three aspects of these comics, which Mr LeLoir submitted could be detrimental to young readers, and therefore justified the Tribunal in classifying the publications as indecent.

Acceptance of drug taking as a normal way of life: The use of narcotics (mainly marijuana) by the primary characters in the publications is an element of the prohibition of their importation. This aspect of the publications led Mr LeLoir to submit that "throughout they all give an acceptance of drug taking as a normal way of life." Although he did not explicitly say so, we take it that Mr LeLoir was submitting the publications were injurious to the public good because of the possibility of corruption or injury to the community by persons being exposed to the material.

The possibility of corruption, or of effects injurious to the community could exist in the content of many works of fiction, because in all works of entertainment there is always the risk that some person will be harmful influenced by what he has read or seen. One could not reasonably suggest that every work that could have harmful influences should be submitted if it could lead the listener or the reader of the comic to say so, we take it that Mr LeLoir was submitting the publica­tions were injurious to the public good because of the possibility of corruption of readers and/or the possibility of unlaw­ful narcotics use being promoted or encouraged.

The Tribunal has paid careful attention to the submissions that the present publications are similar to others considered by the Tribunal and classified as indecent in decisions 767-786 of 14 December 1973. The Tribunal has had the advantage of examining some of the publications examined in that decision, and while they might be termed inferior in standard to the present publications, they are not entirely dissimilar. This may be seen by examining the following material extract from that decision.

Dopin Dan, Mothers Oats, Tales of Amorkins and Merton affairs, some of them associated with drugs. Sexual context is minimal and lacks the blateness of other comics in this set. Indeed there is little which could be considered harmful to readers. However, the crude, offensively language along with one or two frames depicting the administration of drug dosages could have detrimental effects on the young.

The Tribunal in that case held that the publications fell squarely within the provision of section 11 (3) and so they had to be declared indecent.

While cartoons and satirical material cannot be given carte blanche, we are not prepared to go as far, in relation to the present material as the Tribunal did in its earlier decision, in its reference to the effect of the use of narcotics by the characters in the cartoons.

It may well be that where a non-fiction magazine or book has as its dominant purpose the encouragement of unlawful narcotics use and is seriously capable of being injurious to the public good, the Tribunal will classify the material as indecent (see e.g. Decision No. 951, 30 May 1980 and the other decisions cited therein). Although satire and cartoon material is just as capable of promoting a viewpoint as is ordinary text, whether it does so is a question of fact. Further, insofar as genuine fiction and satire is concerned, leeway in the choice of subject-matter must be given to those who seek to entertain or amuse us. In our view it would be readily that a publication is merely a vehicle for the presentation of indecent material injurious to the public good.

For all the above reasons we reject Mr LeLoir's first submission.

Violation: We do not propose to deal at length with this submission. Although we accept that some of the cartoons featured indecent content, the stories as a whole are mild, so far as other comics are concerned, in terms of the degree of violence. We therefore are unable to accept Mr LeLoir's second submission.

Crude and offensive language: In two of the publications, namely The Collected Adventures of the Fabulous Furry Freak Brothers and Further Adventures of those Fabulous Furry Freak Brothers, four letter words are occasionally used. Mr LeLoir's submission on this point has caused the Tribunal some concern, because crude language is not normally a feature of a cartoon publication. However, the Tribunal, after giving careful consideration to the use of the language, is not satisfied from the sporadic references in the publications, that there will be injurious to the public good, even having regard to the provisions of section 11 (3). In coming to this conclusion the Tribunal has assessed the material with its unique experience and its view of current standards in the community.

For all the above reasons we are unable to agree with Mr LeLoir's third submission. We have discussed the above issues having regard to the provisions of section 11 (3). Even if those provisions did apply, we are of the view that each of the publications herein for the views already expressed are not injurious.

This decision is a verdict in the light of our finding that the provisions of section 11 (3) do not apply to the publications.

For all the above reasons we classify each of the publications herein as not indecent.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in matters of an application by the Comptroller of Customs in respect of the following publication: Lady Chatterley's Second Lover published by Moonar Books Incorporated, New York, U.S.A.

BEFORE THE INDECENT PUBLICATIONS TRIBUNAL
Judge W. M. Willis (chairman),
Mestames L. Edmond, H. B. Dick, L. P. Nikera, and Mr J. V. B. McLinden.

Hearing: 22nd July 1980.

Appearances: Mr P. E. F. M. LeLoir for the Comptroller of Customs, Written submissions by D. W. Shirley on behalf of Shop 6.

Decision
This publication was a sample copy imported and seized at Auckland earlier this year.

As the importer has disputed the forfeiture the Customs Department has referred the publication to this Tribunal for classification prior to the commencement of condemnation proceedings pursuant to the Customs Act 1966.

Lady Chatterley's Second Lover is a paperback book 221 pages long, written by Ted Mark. The publication is really a collection of 18 short stories, one of which is used as the title for the publication.

Mr LeLoir on behalf of the Comptroller of Customs submitted that the major purpose of the book was to arouse prurient interest since the base for nearly all the stories was sex and in many cases sexual episodes were explicit with crude and offensive language. He submitted further that there was insufficient non-sexual matter to redeem the book and that similar publications were classified as indecent by the Tribunal in decision No. 934, on 21 December 1979.

On the other hand, Mr Shirley stated in his written sub­mission that although the stories were about sex, which was treated in an adult rather than merely a prurient manner. He submitted that the stories had real character and were not just a succession of sexual escapades in order to promote indecency for the sake of indecency.

The Tribunal has paid careful attention to the submissions made by both the Comptroller for Customs and by Mr Shirley. We agree with Mr LeLoir that the main base for nearly all the stories is sex. However, the degree of sexual content and explicitness seems considerably from story to story. Stories such as The Three Bears, Lady Chatterley's Second Lover, and Sharpest Blade in the West have no literary merit and could not justify Mr Shirley's submission that "the characters themselves are real people who do not say real things and are not merely puppets on which to hang sex for the sake of sex." If a significant number of the stories had been of the nature of the three mentioned above, we would have had no hesitation in accepting Mr LeLoir's submissions.
However, quite a number of the stories, for example The Girl in the Fre ND S LIP, In a Man's Apartment, - , and The Wisest Man in the World contain little or no material which could arouse a prurient interest. We are inclined to accept Mr. Shirley’s submissions that in the majority of stories sex is treated in an adult rather than a prurient manner.

However, as we have already stated, we express concern at the sexual content of a number of the stories. They have no merit and deal with sex in a purely salacious way. In terms of the provisions of section 11 of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, we find that while the dominant effect of the publication as a whole is not to deal with sex in a manner that is injurious to the adult public good, nevertheless there is little artistic merit in the book and there are some stories that deal with matters of sex in a manner likely to corrupt young readers, and therefore we think it desirable that an age restriction should be placed upon the book.

Finally, we must note that we have had the opportunity of examining the publications referred to in decision No. 934, of 21 December 1979. The publications therein were four novels, all declared indecent by the Tribunal. However, none of the publications concerned short stories, and the Tribunal, with respect to Mr Leloir’s argument, found them of little assistance in the approach adopted in the present case, namely a consideration of the balance of merit in the short stories in the publication.

For all the above reasons we declare the publication Lady Chatterley’s Second Lover to be indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 18.

Dated at Wellington this 5th day of December 1980.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the following publication: Generation of Blood published by Manor Books Inc., New York, U.S.A.

BEFORE THE INDECENT PUBLICATIONS TRIBUNAL

Judge W. M. Willis (chairman),
Mesdames L. Edmond, H. B. Dick, L. P. Nikera, and Mr J. V. B. McLinden.

Decision

Generation of Blood is a sample copy of a book imported commercially and seized at Auckland in June of this year. As the importer has disputed forfeiture the Customs Department has referred the publication to the Tribunal for classification prior to the commencement of condemnation proceedings pursuant to the Customs Act 1966.

The publication is a paper back novel, 188 pages long and appears to have been written (from the date of the author’s copyright) in 1961.

The novel itself is split into two parts, Book I and Book II. Book I describes the enslavement and transportation of a number of sexual acts in the book, they are set in a cotton plantation in Georgia in the United States. Book II deals with subsequent developments at the plantation, which comes under the rule of a rather unpleasant character called Curtis. The book comes to a rather disjointed and abrupt ending with the destruction of the plantation by soldiers of the Union army.

Mr Leloir submitted that even although the novel was a story of slavery and sex, it was a story of slaves and slavery in the southern states of America at the time of the Civil War. He argued that the main theme of the author was to put together as much sex and violence as possible and to weave a story around the various episodes.

While Mr Shirley accepted that this another “slave” novel (implying as a matter of course, we think, a certain amount of sex and violence in its theme from the nature of the subject), he submitted that it was in the genre of many others which have not been declared unconditionally indecent. Mr Shirley asked the Tribunal to impose an age restriction of 18 on the publication, not because of its sexual content but because of its violence.

This novel is no work of art, and we feel that it could be well described as pulp fiction, exploiting, as have many others, a sorrowful and sordid aspect of American history.

However, we are unable to agree with Mr Leloir’s submission that the novel is a mere vehicle for the explicit description of sexual and/or violent episodes. While there are descriptions of sexual acts in the book, they are not too frequent and explicit as to indicate the author merely wrote the book to provide padding for the detailed description of a number of sexual episodes. For these reasons we would not be prepared to declare the book indecent on the grounds of its sexual content.

The Tribunal has also considered the episodes of violence in the book. We must note once again that the book is an historical novel and is set in a violent and bloody time in American history. The novel, although fiction, reflects incidents that could well have taken place. We do not think there is in this novel, because of its historical setting, a risk of the episodes of violence being injurious to the community.

As well, we are by no means certain that the descriptions of violence are unacceptable in themselves.

We are not bound to accept, nor do we accept in this case, an importer’s request that a certain level of classification be placed upon a publication. The classification, if any, is a matter for the Tribunal itself to determine.

For all these reasons we declare Generation of Blood to be not indecent.

Dated at Wellington this 15th day of December 1980.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the following publication: The Best of Sierra Domino No. 1, publishers and photographers, Sierra Domino, San Francisco.

BEFORE THE INDECENT PUBLICATIONS TRIBUNAL

Judge W. M. Willis (chairman),
Mesdames L. Edmond, H. B. Dick, L. P. Nikera, and Mr J. V. B. McLinden.

Appearances: Mr P. E. F. M. Leloir for the Comptroller of Customs. Written submissions by D. W. Shirley on behalf of the importer, Shop Six.

Decision

The Best of Sierra Domino No. 1 is a collection of photographs published in America and imported into New Zealand. The publication is a book, each page containing one or more photographs of young women. The importer has no objection to the book being imported for sale, but in view of the objections raised by the Comptroller of Customs, the Tribunal has been asked to consider whether the book should be declared indecent.

The Tribunal has also considered the publication as a whole, and concludes that while the book contains material which could be considered to be indecent, in our view it does not contain enough material to make it indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 18.

Dated at Wellington this 15th day of December 1980.

Judge W. M. WILLIS, Chairman.
This is a single copy, privately imported and seized by Customs on 15 August 1978, and it has been referred to the Tribunal for classification by the Department.

This publication consists of 46 pages of pictures, text, and advertisements. Some pictures are in colour, but in the main the magazine is presented in black and white photographs on glossy paper. The photographs throughout are entirely of naked, or near naked males, with considerable emphasis on displays of the penis. The stories and the pages of text entitled Fantasies are predominately homosexual, with frank and descriptive language (at times bordering on the offensive), characterising every episode.

The magazine contains no serious articles, or even light weight literary articles; to balance the sexual impact it presents. The magazine is produced obviously for homosexual readers and those they hope to recruit. Because of its presentation and makeup, and the frank advertisements oriented to homosexual practices the Tribunal is of the opinion that there is serious doubt as to the honesty of purpose of the publisher. In fact one is led to believe that the magazine is only produced to promote homosexuality. In his submission the Comptroller of Customs reminds us that such is a crime in New York.
and few aspects of sex. It was submitted that they lacked honesty of purpose and their likelihood of corruption, far outweighed any possible benefit. The Tribunal agrees with the submissions made by the Comptroller and classifies each of these books as indecent.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

BEFORE THE INDECENT PUBLICATIONS TRIBUNAL

Judge W. M. Willis (Chairman),

Mr J. V. B. McLinden.

Decision: 3 December 1980.

Appearances: Mr P. E. LeLoir for Comptroller of Customs,
Mr D. O'Brien for importer, Gordon and Getch (N.Z.) Ltd.

Decision

These three issues of Mayfair are submitted pursuant to section 14 (1) of the Act for a decision as to their classification. The magazine has been considered by the Tribunal on three previous occasions in decisions No. 574–5 (1972), No. 798 (1974), and No. 908 (1978). In the two earlier editions the magazine was classified as indecent but in 1978 it was classified as indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 18 years. A 2-year restriction order was made and is because this order expires on 30 November that the magazine has been submitted once more for classification.

In his submissions Mr LeLoir submitted that the magazine does not seem to have changed in the last 2 years but points out that the sexual material, although amounting from half to two-thirds of the magazine, is generally more restrained pictorially and so far as the text is concerned, than other magazines of a similar type, for example Penthouse. There is not the same emphasis on the female genitalia in the photographs although the non-sexual material is light-weight when compared with those in Penthouse. For those reasons Mr LeLoir suggested an age restriction was desirable but that a further 2-year restriction order should be made.

For the publishers, Mr O'Brien agreed that the standard of the magazine had not changed in the past 2 years and he mentioned that the editorial staff and basic philosophy have remained similar. He suggested however, that the standard of decency commonly accepted by the community in relation to sexual matters at least, has been the subject of subtle liberalisation. The publishers, he said, made no pretence of offering other than a sexually orientated magazine which was in the nature of light entertainment. There is a substantial content of non-sexual material including some articles of an informative nature and there are other articles which are said to be well read. There is a substantial volume of advertising for consumer products. The submission was made that the general tone of the magazine was neither obnoxious or patently offensive and it suggested that it might be more fairly described as restrained. The pictures did not contain the same posed attitudes which are found in other magazines although there is "an obvious abundance of nakedness.

As earlier editions of this magazine have been held to be indecent, and as a 2-year restriction order was placed on the magazine in 1978, the Tribunal has felt it prudent to look at this issue for reclassification. It has been suggested that magazines of this type are responsible for the lowering in community standards. While it may be true that the magazines play some part in this process, it would be too much to suggest that they are solely responsible.

As was decided by the Tribunal in 1978, this Tribunal is of the view that allowing adults to read Mayfair will not be injurious to the public good, so that the three issues are classified as indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 18 years. In terms of section 15A (1) of the Act, a restriction order in similar terms is made for a period of 2 years.

Industries Development Commission Notice No. 1981/2—
Inquiry Concerning the New Zealand Tobacco Industry

(1) In a letter of 15 December 1980, the Minister of Trade and Industry requested the Commission:

(a) To inquire into and report on the duty applicable to imports under Tariff items 24.01.005, 24.02.011, 24.02.021, and 24.02.031 of the New Zealand Customs Tariff, taking into account the reorganisation of the domestic tobacco industry; and

(b) To recommend the appropriate timetable for the gradual removal of import licensing requirements on tobacco products, excluding cigars, between 1 July 1983 and 30 June 1985.

(2) When making its inquiry and report the Commission may take evidence on and otherwise have regard to any other matter or product it considers relevant to the inquiry under reference, or exclude from its consideration any matter or product it considers not relevant.

(3) The Commission was requested to report on the above inquiry by 1 April 1981 but this has been extended to 30 April 1981.

(4) This reference followed decisions made by the Government on the reorganisation of the tobacco industry. A summary of these decisions is set out in the Schedule to this notice. Due to the significant flow-on effects that Tariff levels on imported and manufactured tobacco products can have on demand for local leaf, the Government considered it desirable that all industry parties be aware of the full consequences of the package before its implementation.

(5) The Commission has received from officials copies of the detailed information provided by parties during the course of the inquiry leading to the reorganisation of the tobacco industry and will be contacting the various parties to obtain any further details required.

(6) The Commission will appraise the information received and early in March 1981 will distribute a draft report setting out its views on the Tariff levels and import licensing requirements considered desirable, and, in accordance with its terms of reference.

(7) The Commission will release its draft report publicly and invite submissions on the content of the report from any interested party. 20 copies of public submissions will be required and these may be amplified, if necessary, by an accompanying confidential submission. Submissions must reach the Commission's office not later than 31 March 1981.

(8) As soon as possible after 31 March 1981 the Commission will circulate copies of all public submissions to those parties who have lodged submissions.

(9) A public hearing on the content of the draft report and the subsequent submissions will commence in the Commission's Hearing Room, Eighth Floor, Cumberland House, Upper Willis Street, Wellington, on Tuesday, 7 April 1981, at 10.30 a.m. Should the hearing extend beyond the first day, the commencement time on subsequent days will be 10 a.m.

(10) All submissions will be required to be attested to under oath and those who have so attested may cross-examine other parties.

Secretary, Industries Development Commission.

Licences Issued Under the Animal Remedies Act 1967—(Notice No. 2536, Ag. 6/2/3/1)

Pursuant to sections 21 (6), 25 (4), 25 (5) and 28 (3) of the Animal Remedies Act 1967, the Registrar of Animal Remedies hereby gives notice that licences have been issued, renewed, have lapsed or have been varied as set out in the Schedule hereto;

1. The licences for remedies listed in Schedule I are new licences, not subject to conditions.
2. The licences for remedies listed in Schedule II are new licences issued subject to the conditions:
   (a) That the remedy shall not be sold to any other person other than a veterinary surgeon, or a dealer or otherwise than pursuant to the prescription of a veterinary surgeon; and
   (b) That the remedy shall not be used otherwise than by or under the supervision of a veterinary surgeon.
3. The licences for remedies listed in Schedule III are licences renewed, not subject to conditions.
4. The licences for remedies listed in Schedule IV are licences renewed subject to the conditions:
   (a) That the remedy shall not be sold to any other person other than a veterinary surgeon, or a dealer or otherwise than pursuant to the prescription of a veterinary surgeon; and
   (b) That the remedy shall not be used otherwise than by or under the supervision of a veterinary surgeon.
5. The remedy listed in Schedule V is provisionally licensed subject to the conditions shown in respect of it.
6. The licences for remedies listed in Schedule VI are licences which have lapsed or have been withdrawn by the licensee.

Import Licence Tendering Scheme—Call for Tenders

Pursuant to the Import Control Regulations 1973, Amendment No. 3 (S.R. 190/246), the Secretary of Trade and Industry acting under delegated authority is calling tenders for import licences for the goods specified below. These goods constitute “Lot Four” and the closing time and date for tenders is 5 p.m. on 21 April 1981. Instructions for prospective tenderers and the general terms and conditions which apply to the submission and acceptance of tenders are set out in the Guide to the Import Licence Tendering Scheme. Copies of this guide and tender forms may be obtained from the Department of Trade and Industry and the Customs Department. Tenders should be addressed to the Registrar, Import Licensing Tendering, Department of Trade and Industry, Private Bag, Wellington. Tenders for “Lot Four” will be opened on 22 April 1981, and official results will be published in the New Zealand Gazette.

NOTE—
1. Tenderers should refer to the Customs Tariff and the Import Licensing Schedule for a definitive description of the goods included in the list above.
2. Tenderers should be conversant with the various statutes and regulations which importing enterprises are obliged to comply with, such as safety standards, duties and sales tax where relevant.
3. Tenderers are reminded to use a separate tender bid form for each licence unit bid for. Each bid should be sent in a separate envelope with the tender number marked outside.
4. For items marked with an asterisk tenderers are required to complete a spare parts and servicing pre-registration form and forward it in a separate envelope marked “spare parts and servicing pre-registration” to the Registrar.
5. For tender numbers 1981/84 to 87 inclusive it has now been decided to stipulate specific licence units for round one. This supersedes the advice given on page 3 (c) of the Guide and in the provisional product list that there would be no stipulated licence unit size for these tender numbers.
