

had it produced evidence of its present financial situation. We do not accept that this was precluded simply because of the requirement to report to Parliament. We do not need to decide that question but the fact that the Corporation is required to report on its total financial position in an annual report does not preclude the Corporation from producing specific figures such as of advertising revenue which the Corporation has on previous occasions provided to the Tribunal in such circumstances, despite the fact that the report had not been tabled in Parliament.

8. The Corporation did not cross-examine witnesses on the Australian position. This has resulted in a prejudice to the parties.

The Tribunal would permit Mr Rennie to indicate the Corporation's changed position and the reasons for it, but not to provide new supporting evidence which could lead to extensive economic evidence.

Although the Tribunal did not rule in detail on Mr Dick's evidence, considerable evidence on Australian advertising revenue had been produced to the Tribunal. Mr Miles had called three witnesses on Australian and regional matters. The evidence proposed to be called was available to the Corporation earlier and some has been previously published.

In all the circumstances the Tribunal considers that the admission of substantial new evidence of an economic kind which is not an updating of existing evidence and which is tendered to support a changed Corporation position, should not be permitted.

The Corporation will be free to make such submissions as it thinks fit on the extensive evidence already produced.

If the Corporation wishes to make any detailed submissions on Mr Dick's evidence, it may now do so. We do not here rule out the giving of evidence by Mr Dick as Chief Executive.

Signed for the Tribunal:

B. H. SLANE, Chairman.
