Electrical Apparatus which may Constitute an Electrical Hazard

Prohibition

Pursuant to regulation 8 of the Electrical Wiring Regulations 1976, notice is hereby given that the accessory described below may in my opinion constitute an electrical hazard, and is therefore prohibited from use in New Zealand.

Description: An adaptor, being of a two-pin flat-pin to two-pin parallel or round pin non-polarised socket type.

The prohibited adaptor is that which has one or more of the following faults:

- a. Not marked with the manufacturer's name or trade mark;
- b. Not marked with the rated voltage and current;
- c. Has a clearance from pin to edge of housing of less than 9 mm as specified in NZS 198;
- d. Is made in two parts where the two halves are not adequately secured together.

The possible electrical hazards are:

a. The inadequate clearance which could result in fingers (particularly those of children) accidentally contacting live parts while the adaptor is being inserted or withdrawn from a socket outlet;

b. The two parts can easily be parted thereby exposing live parts.

Every person who sells or offers for sale any apparatus, materials or accessories which in the opinion of the Secretary of Energy constitutes or may constitute an electrical hazard commits an offence and shall be liable on summary of conviction to a fine not exceeding $200.

Dated at Wellington this 22nd day of September 1988.

British Settlements Act 1887

Officers of Government of Ross Dependency Appointed

RONALD DAVISON, Administrator of the Government

WHEREAS, by an Order in Council dated the 30th day of July 1923*, made under the British Settlements Act 1887 of the United Kingdom Parliament, the Governor-General and Commander-in-Chief of New Zealand for the time being (hereinafter called the Governor) was appointed to be the Governor of the Ross Dependency, and all the powers and authorities which by the said order were given and granted to the Governor for the time being of the Dependency were thereby vested in him:

And whereas the Governor was thereby further authorised and empowered to make all such rules and regulations as might lawfully be made by Her Majesty's authority for the peace, order, and good government of the Dependency:

And whereas, by regulations made by the Governor on the 14th day of November 1923†, it was enacted that all persons appointed by the Governor for the time being of the Dependency should have such power and authority as might be granted them in due course of law, and might be empowered to do such things as might be necessary or desirable to ensure that the laws in force in the Dependency are duly observed and complied with in every respect, and to do all things necessary or expedient for the peace, order, and good government of the Dependency, and to safeguard and preserve Her Majesty's rights and sovereignty over and in respect of the Dependency:

And whereas it is expedient that the persons hereinafter
