The terms and conditions relevant to the right to drain water contained and implied in the Seventh Schedule to the Land Transfer Act 1952 except insofar as such terms and conditions are inconsistent with the terms and conditions hereinafter appearing:

1. The grantor shall not at any time do or suffer any act or thing to be done which will prevent or interfere with the free passage of water through the first land or through the pipes or prevent or interfere with full and free use and enjoyment by the Crown of the rights and privileges hereby granted.

2. The grantor shall not be permitted to place any buildings or erections on the first described land over the line of the said easement and will not at anytime hereafter do permit or suffer to be done or permitted any act whereby the rights, powers, licences and liberties hereby reserved to the Crown may be interfered with.

3. All differences and disputes which shall arise between the grantor and the Crown touching or concerning this notice or any act or thing to be done suffered or omitted in pursuance hereof or touching or concerning the construction of these presents shall be referred to arbitration in accordance with the Arbitration Act 1908 or any amendment thereto or re-enactment thereof for the time being in force.

4. The Crown and her engineers and workmen in the exercise of all or any of the rights hereby granted and in performing all or any of the obligations hereby imposed will cause as little damage as possible to be done to the surface of the first land and will at the cost of the Crown restore the same as nearly as possible to its former condition or state including the reinstatement of any grass trees shrubs etc., which it may have disturbed or interfered with.

5. The Crown shall at her own cost keep and maintain the pipes in good and serviceable repair and shall not permit the same to fall into disrepair nor do damage of any kind nor become a nuisance by any cause whatsoever.

Dated at Dunedin this 12th day of July 1989.

K. M. STEWART, District Manager, Department of Lands, Dunedin.
