Summary of Bills Introduced

Building Bill

The primary purpose of the Building Bill is to implement the major recommendations contained in the report of the Building Industry Commission.

The main aspects of the Bill are—

(a) The introduction of a national focus for the control of building in New Zealand:

(b) The establishment of a central agency (the Building Industry Authority) to act as one source of referral and review for building-control and occupancy-control systems within the framework of the National building code:

(c) The detailing of distinct roles for the major policy and regulatory groups (the Minister of Internal Affairs, the Building Industry Authority, and territorial local authorities) in relation to building control and occupancy control:

(d) With some minor exceptions, the binding of the Crown on building control and occupancy control matters:

(e) The establishment of a legal basis for the making of a performance-based National building code to replace a variety of existing central government and local government building controls:

(f) The introduction of provisions for the Building Industry Authority to undertake reviews of the operation of individual territorial authorities and building certifiers in relation to their control functions and providing for the Building Industry Authority to settle differences between property owners and territorial authorities relating to building control and occupancy control in terms of the National building code:

(g) The introduction of a system of building and occupancy consents for new buildings and some existing buildings:

(h) Making provision for the issue of certificates by the Building Industry Authority to building certifiers. A building certifier will be able to certify that building plans comply with the Building Act and code. A territorial authority will be required to accept such a certificate in its consideration of an application for building approval:
