Special Address from the House of Representatives to The Queen, and Her Majesty's Reply

On Wednesday, the 14th day of February 1990, the House of Representatives adopted a respectful address to The Queen on the occasion of Her Majesty's presence in New Zealand in this Anniversary Year of 1990. The address was presented to Her Majesty by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Hon. Sir Kerry Burke, accompanied by members of the House on Thursday, the 15th day of February 1990 at Government House, Wellington.

The text of the address is as follows:

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY
MOST GRACIOUS MAJESTY:

We, Your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the members of the House of Representatives in Parliament assembled, beg leave to offer our humble thanks to Your Majesty, and our heartfelt gladness, for Your Majesty's presence among Your people of New Zealand in this Anniversary Year of 1990.

As representatives of the people of New Zealand, we express our great pleasure that Your Majesty, with His Royal Highness The Duke of Edinburgh, has come to reside in Your Realm of New Zealand to join with your people in their commemoration and celebration of their heritage and national identity, while looking to the challenges and opportunities of the years ahead.

We recall especially the signing of the Treaty of Waitangi 150 years ago, during the reign of Your Majesty's illustrious great-great-grandmother, Queen Victoria. We are happy to affirm the bonds with the Crown established at that period of our history. We acknowledge the trust that falls to us to honour the Treaty, and we dedicate ourselves anew to making its principles an enduring reality.

In commemorating the 75th Anniversary of the landing of the Anzac Forces at Gallipoli, we recall the sacrifices made there, and in other fields of combat, for Sovereign and country. This House asks Your Majesty to attest the devotion of Your people of New Zealand to the principles of freedom and democracy, and to the other fundamental values that we cherish. We assure Your Majesty that New Zealanders look forward to being joined by Her Royal Highness The Princess Royal during the Anzac Day observances.

Mindful of New Zealand's membership of the Commonwealth, whose Head is Your Majesty, we affirm our adherence to the common tradition from which that association of nations has evolved, and declare our commitment to the spirit and forms of co-operation contributing to concord and understanding among peoples and their wellbeing. New Zealanders have been delighted to welcome the return of His Royal Highness The Prince Edward, to open the XIVth Commonwealth Games.

It is the fervent hope of this House that Your Majesty and His Royal Highness The Duke of Edinburgh have found your time in New Zealand enjoyable and interesting, and we
